THE DAILY AVALANCHE

There is a female brass band in Decatur, Illinois.

New barracks, to cost $150,000, are to be built at Atlanta.

The State of Vermont contains twenty-eight thousand Roman Catholics.

Hon. Burton Craig, the author of the secession ordinance of North Carolina, has been pardoned by the President.

The total sum subscribed in France for the Pontifical Zouaves amounts to 1,125,000 francs, in 2,250 offerings of 500 francs each.

Lay representation is being voted on by the Methodist Church North, with every prospect of the adoption of the principle.

The Methodist centenary contributions have reached four millions of dollars, and it is expected will reach two millions more.

Archbishop Spaulding, having returned from Europe, delivered a sermon, last Sunday, on the eighteenth centennial celebration at Rome.

There is a capital old gentleman in Providence who gives each of his children $100,000 on their wedding day. This estimable trait cost him $200,000 last month.

A Pittsburg jeweler advertises that he has purchased one of Mrs. Lincoln's diamond sets—duly labeled and on exhibition in his show window.

Rev. E. E. Cummings, D.D., for the past thirty-five years a clergyman at Concord, N. H., has asked a dismission from the Pleasant Street Baptist Society of that city.

General Canby's order that no one shall be a juror in his district who has not paid his taxes for the current year, will make the number of negro jurors small indeed.

The Kentucky Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows reports having raised the past year over $100,000 for the Widows' Home and Orphans' College, at Harrodsburg.

One of the largest Episcopal churches in St. Louis had the gas turned off on Sunday night, leaving the congregation in total darkness, in consequence of the gas bill remaining over one day unpaid.

The New York correspondent of the Charleston Courier says a rumor prevailed on the 18th instant, that Mr. James Gordon Bennett had sold the New York Herald for one million dollars.

The Philadelphia Age states that large numbers of workmen in that city have been discharged by their employers because they voted the Democratic ticket at the late election.

Isaac T. Martin, who is Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, is also a Senator elect from the county of Harrison, and his name is widely mentioned in connection with the Speakership of the Senate.

The benefits of being married were shown in a recent review at Chatham of several thousand British troops by the Duke of Cambridge. A pint of porter was issued to each man, and an additional pint to each man that was married.

By a recent act of the British Parliament, Hebrews who close their factories and workshops on Saturday till sunset, are permitted to open them from sunset till nine o'clock, "for females and young persons" to work till that hour.

Rev. Father Murphy, of Portsmouth, was invited to offer the prayer at the opening of the Supreme Court, in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, on Tuesday. This is probably the first instance in the State where a Catholic priest has been thus recognized.

John Oxenford says, in a letter to the London Times: "In the present state of the English stage, I doubt whether, save when Mr. Charles Kean visits London, a tragedian is to be found who is worthy to hold a candle to Mr. Forrest."

Rev. Dr. Huntington, of Boston, declares fairs and picnics, to pay church debts, a mixture of merchandise, cajolery and merry making, which is casting up a treacherous highway at the Lord's feet, casting out the heart of the church to extend its outward prosperity.

The number of Protestant churches in Cleveland is forty-three, and the average attendance about 15,000. The number of Catholic churches is seven, with an average attendance of different persons at some one of the services on each Sabbath of 12,000. The number of Jewish synagogues is two, with an average attendance of 350.

Information from reliable sources states that General Sherman has given his opinion to the effect that any attempt by Congress to impeach President Johnson, except in accordance with forms of law and the constitution of the United States, would be clearly revolutionary, and should be resisted by the President with all the means in his control.

Forney says all that is necessary to make rebellion honorable, and to surrender the Government to it; to confirm the usurpations in Maryland, Kentucky and Delaware; to encourage the persecutions of the freedmen and white Unionists in the unreconstructed States, and to stimulate Andrew Johnson in his continued war upon Congress, is for the people of the old Free States to vote against the Republican party.

Archbishop Purcell, of Cincinnati, has written a letter in reply to Rev. Thomas Vickers, in which he declares that the Pope has never been opposed to progress; that it is a stale slander to say the Catholic Church is opposed to the circulation of the Bible, and that he himself is opposed to a union of church and State, and prefers the condition of the church in the United States to its condition in Italy, France, or Spain.

The New Orleans Picayune of the 18th instant reports the death of Captain James H. Hutchins, at one time commander of the Confederate cruiser Shenandoah, and says of him: "He was born in Lubec, Maine, and was a resident of this city (except such time as he was in the service of the late Confederate States Navy) for the last forty years, and lived to the ripe old age of sixty-six. A genial, warm-hearted man, his many good qualities of head and heart endeared him to all with whom he came in contact."

The Paris Moniteur of the 22d instant, in an official article announcing the cessation of warlike preparations against Italy, says: "France beheld the spectacle of an invasion of the Papal States by armed bands from the neighboring provinces of Italy. She could not consistently with her duty, dignity and her national honor, suffer the September Convention to be thus violated, and she prepared to send an army across the Alps; but Italy has since given ample pledges to fulfill her obligations of the treaty in the largest issue, and consequently all hostile preparations have been suspended by France."

A dispatch from Lynchburg says the election in that city progressed quietly very until about three o'clock in the afternoon, when an affray occurred that caused a great deal of excitement. Horton, a colored man, voted the Conservative ticket, and was assaulted by Radical negroes, who were enraged by the vote he gave. Horton fled, but was overtaken at the market house by his pursuers, who threatened his life, and commenced a violent attack upon him. Horton drew a revolver and fired three times, wounding three of them mortally. The military arriving at this time, dispersed the crowd and took Horton under arrest and protection. The negroes voted en masse the extreme Radical side.

LETTER FROM HON. B. H. HILL.

The Great Reaction at the North—The Duty of the South.

Advice to the Honest Conventionists.

Comments on the Letters of Hon. H. V. Johnson and Roger A. Pryor.

A Republican's Views on the Situation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 14, 1867.

To the Editors of the Chronicle and Sentinel:

I suppose that all men must admit that the great reaction has certainly commenced. The suggestions of reason always taught me this must be sooner or later. Earnest and anxious observation of men and things in the North for ten days before the election confirmed me in my opinions. This reaction will go on and rapidly increase. All ordinary principles of human action must fail or New York will render a more decided verdict than has yet been rendered. Even Massachusetts gives promise of showing at least a great decrease of the Radical vote.

The fact is also worthy the consideration of statesmen and true patriots, that the decision is more decidedly against the Radical policy than the Radical party. This fact must teach the party that if it shall adhere to a policy after it has been so emphatically condemned, the party itself must be cursed and utterly cast out, for it will add contumacy to heresy.

In view of the hopeful and ever glorious changes in the North, what is the manifest duty of the South? To give my opinions on this question is the chief inducement to write this letter.

1. In the first place I think every man at the South, who has been inclined to accept the Radical measures, owes it to himself and the country to reconsider his position. I do not know a single respectable man in the South who has ever said these measures were approved by him as either constitutional, right, or just. On the contrary, the reason urged for adopting them has been that, though unjust and unconstitutional, they were the will of the Northern people—the conqueror—and therefore, we were bound to submit to them. But they are not the will of the conqueror. Who now, can look at the election in Ohio and say that negro suffrage is the will of people of that State? Who will say that the people of Ohio would be so mean as to aid in forcing on other States a rule which they repudiate for themselves? They will never do it. And what is true of Ohio is true of an overwhelming majority of the people of the Northern States. Therefore, every man who urged us to accept of a wrong because it was a necessity, must now, in order to be consistent, abandon the wrong when the necessity is shown not to exist. They urged us to accept Radical measures because they were the will of the Northern people. We ask them now to reject Radical measures because they are wrong and also because they are not the will of the Northern people. They asked us to submit to the Radical party because they were omnipotent and stronger than the Constitution. We now ask them to reject the Radical party because that party is itself being destroyed by the people.

I do not wonder that many, under the adverse circumstances which surrounded us, committed the mistake. All history shows that in times of severe trial many are timid few are courageous, and still fewer willing to defy wrong and become martyrs for the truth. The very multitude gathered about the Saviour when he multiplied the loaves and fishes. His very deciples fled when they saw him bearing the cross. But they did not act criminally. They only acted naturally. Indeed, men often do wrong with good motives. We are all liable to make mistakes. The only remedy for human errors is to abandon them; and the only infallible rule for human conduct is forgiveness. It requires courage to abandon an error—to confess a mistake. Will any be so cowardly as not to abandon what they admit is wrong? Will any still urge the Southern people to accept dishonor after the Northern people have proclaimed they do not exact it! Now is the opportune moment for all to get right. For the past their errors were only mistakes. Persisted in now these errors will become crimes. Let us all, in the sincere spirit of cardinal kindness, welcome back to the good old ark our brothers who have been vainly seeking safety in the wild unbridled passions outside of the Constitution. North and South let us all forget and forgive the war and its passions, and return to the Constitution and its guarantees, with freedom universal, and the "rights, dignity and equality of the States unimpaired."

2. As the most effective method of condemning the Radical measures, I think no man, black or white, at the South, ought to vote at the military elections, or have anything to do with organizing governments under the military bills. Let every man stay at home and attend quietly to his business and to advise every other man to do likewise.

True, the Radicals here most shamefully boast that the reaction at the North comes too late to rescue the South from their measures. They pretend to be carrying out the will of the people, but now they find out they misrepresented the people—they boast that the military are in possession and, right or wrong, will or no will, will carry out the programme of force on the Southern people.

This is not true. Even if the military commanders are so desperate as to consent to be so used, and should even force a convention and a constitution under the military bills, a healthy public sentiment, now fast returning, will, through the courts, and every other department of the government, declare such governments to be illegal and void, and will consign to infamy every man engaged in this wicked attempt against both the Constitution and the voice of the people.

If the negroes are properly advised they will abandon this effort to force themselves into the rule over the white race. Let them be advised to improve themselves—to live in peace and good will with the whites and wait until they are qualified to be enfranchised in a legal, natural and proper way, and then they may expect their elevation to be permanent and peaceful. To seek to force themselves on the whites now in an angry, illegal way is to defeat them forever, and perhaps result in a war of races. Let black and white, therefore, abandon this illegal attempt to organize a civil government by fraudulent and unconstitutional military force, and let no man vote on the question. But if the negroes will not receive the counsels of their best friends, and persist in voting, let them vote alone, and let them alone be responsible for the consequences. He is simply insane who supposes the American people will long tolerate an unconstitutional government forced upon the white race solely by negro votes merely to support a party which the people are pronouncing unworthy, and will soon condemn as hateful. If the Radicals have been unable to prevent the reaction from commencing, they will be the more unable to arrest it; and the attempt to defy it will only make their utter overthrow the more speedy and complete. And when the monster is dead its brood (negro governments) will be unable to live.

3. In the meantime, let us still be kind to the colored people. We know the Southern whites who oppose the Radicals are the best friends the negro can have in this world. We know that to defend the Constitution is to befriend the negro. We know that the worst enemy of the negro is the miserable white man who advises him to force himself to an unnatural equality, contrary to the Constitution and without the concurrence of the whites. But the whole business of the Radicals here is to keep up the passions of the Northern people by false representations of cruelties to the negroes, and keep their papers flooded with slanders from real or pretended correspondents giving details of that kind. Even Greeley is engaged in this dirty work, and Forney lives on it. Let these wicked efforts to slander us only make us more cautious, and the people will ultimately see that while we insist on resisting every effort unconstitutionally to establish negro governments over us, we are also defenders of the real equal rights of the negro before the law, and are fixed in our determination to give him justice and protection.

I see Governor Johnson is out in another letter to the Tribune. It is the ablest he has yet written, and this is saying much in its behalf. The efforts of the Tribune to criticise it are futile, and grossly misrepresent the Southern people.

I do not know a purer or nobler man than Herschel V. Johnson. In heart he is simple as a child; in life he is as pure as virtue itself, and in intellect he is grand as an Emperor ought to be. I know him and I love him. He is unfortunately too despondent in his nature, and the only error in his letter is the revelation of this defect.

Writing on the descending scale, I will mention that Roger A. Pryor is also out in a letter. He professes to be very sorry that he advised the South to secede in 1860, and is greatly troubled when he remembers how many fell victims to that error. He is anxious to repair, as far as he can, the wrongs he has done the poor Southern people, and wants to devote his sorrowing life to this work of repairing. And how does he begin his penitential exercises? Why, by advising the Southern people who did not die in the fight, but who lost their negroes by taking his advice heretofore, to put themselves under the dominion of their former slaves! He seems to think as the whites lost their slaves by taking his advice before, the wrong will be repaired by re-establishing a slavery, and he graciously, with tears streaming down his cheeks, advises the whites to become the slaves! Why will not men who are forever giving wrong advice, and getting sorry for it, relieve themselves and the people by ceasing to advise? If their opinions were wrong in the past, why should we trust them in the future?

A long conversation which I had with a very intelligent Republican ended with this speech from him: "I belong, Mr. Hill, to the Republican party, as you have seen. I do know the masses of the Republicans do not desire to do injustice to the Southern people. Our leaders told us these harsh measures were necessary to keep down the spirit of resistance at the South. We are beginning to discover that the people of the South are willing to live by the Constitution, and whatever the leaders may desire, the masses of the Republicans will exact nothing more. We are ready to repudiate the policy of our leaders, but we do not like the Democrats, and there is no third party. Neither do we like Andrew Johnson, yet I tell you frankly we are troubled with the thought that such a bad, ill-tempered man as Wade may probably take his place. It is difficult to see what we shall do, or can do, but on this you may rely: The masses of the Republican party North will never consent to force on the Southern people a Government which we would not accept for ourselves. I only wish all the people, North and South, understood each other as you and I now do."

This was the honest expression of a man who desires to do right, and there are very many such. How such men tower above Southern Radicals.

Very truly yours,
BENJAMIN H. HILL.

TENNESSEE LEGISLATURE.

SENATE.

THURSDAY, October 24.

Mr. Frierson offered a resolution authorizing the Claim Agent at Washington to continue his duties until the business of the office is closed.

The resolution recommending General Thomas for Commander-in-Chief of the army was taken up, and on motion of Mr. Garner, was referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

The bill to facilitate voting, providing for opening the polls at eight a.m., and closing them at five p.m., prohibiting the asking of irrelevant questions to delay voting, and requiring four more voting places to be established in the city of Memphis, was considered and passed on third and last reading.

The vote rejecting the bill to authorize the reading of title bonds in actions of ejectment between the vendor and vendee, was reconsidered, and the bill passed its third and last reading.

Adjourned till to-morrow at ten a.m.

HOUSE.

A communication was received from the Controller of the State, calling the attention of the Legislature to the fact that many bills of cost of State prosecutions have accumulated in his office, representing cases that were terminated by the rebellion, and requesting instructions with regard to their payment. Also stating that there is a large amount of money due the State from revenue officers for the years of 1860-'61; that these officers have proposed to settle their accounts by paying the amounts due in the notes of the Bank of Tennessee, and asking instruction and authority to act in the premises. Referred to the Committee on Finance and Ways and Means.

By Mr. Ryder: A bill concerning the leasing or consolidation of railroads of the State.

The bill provides that no railroad shall be leased or consolidated with any other road without the consent of three-fourths of the stock.

By Mr. Reeves: A bill to expedite the business of the courts of the State.

By Mr. Mason: A bill to increase and protect loyalty. The bill inflicts a penalty on all persons selling or harboring photographs or pictures of Jeff. Davis or Robert E. Lee.

By Mr. Cagle: A bill to amend the exemption laws of the State. The bill exempts from execution a homestead of not more than one hundred acres, and of not more than one thousand dollars in value, personal property to the value of five hundred dollars, with an additional exemption to the amount of one hundred dollars for each member of the family of less than twelve years of age, together with necessary wearing apparel, etc.

By Mr. Woodcock: A bill to decrease the expenses of the Governor's staff. The bill fixes the salary of the Adjutant General at $1,600 per year, and makes him also ordnance officer; fixes the salary of the Quartermaster General at $1,600 per year, and makes him also Commissary General.

By Mr. Singletary: A bill providing for the auditing of all claims for losses of loyal citizens of the State during the rebellion. The bill provides for the appointment of a board of three commissioners in each district of the State, whose duty it shall be to examine and audit all claims of loyal citizens, to ascertain the aggregate amount of all such claims allowed by said boards, and to secure, if possible, an appropriation from the general Government for the payment of said claims.

By Mr. Thornburg, of Grainger: A bill to amend the revenue act of 1865 so as to impose a tax on proprietors of race tracks.

By Mr. Hamilton: A bill to repeal chapter 5, of an act passed May 17th, 1865, amending the criminal laws of the State.

By Mr. Ryder: A resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to report upon the expediency of calling a convention of the people to amend the constitution of the State. Laid over.

By Mr. Johnson: A bill to amend the Code of Tennessee, extending the jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace.

By Mr. Bosson: A joint resolution authorizing the Controller to issue his warrant for the payment of the expenses of the Superintendent of Public Schools, and contingent expenses of his office for stationery, etc. Adopted.

House bill No. 78, to incorporate the Merchants' Insurance Company of Memphis. Passed second reading.

House bill No. 58, to incorporate the Magnolia Savings Bank of Memphis. Rejected, on the recommendation of the Judiciary Committee.

House bill No. 71, to amend the law in regard to proceedings before Justices of the Peace on the trial of small offenses. The bill empowers Justices to hear evidence in small offenses, and impose fines not exceeding fifty dollars, and give both parties the right of appeal.

After considerable discussion, and an unsuccessful effort to lay the bill on the table, it was passed—ayes, 53; noes, 15.

The House adjourned till nine a.m. to-morrow.

Growth of Odd Fellowship.

From the American Odd Fellow the subjoined table, which presents a most gratifying exhibit of the condition of the Order of Odd Fellowship throughout the United States at the close of the regular annual term, on the 30th of June, is copied:

Initiations during the year	34,773
Admitted by card	[illegible]
Reinstated	[illegible]	43,944
Withdrawn by card	[illegible]
Suspensions	7,[illegible]
Expulsions	[illegible]
Deaths	[illegible]	17,281
Net increase during the year		[illegible]
Whole number of Subordinate Lodges		[illegible]
Whole number of Members		[illegible]
Amount paid for relief of widowed families		[illegible]
Amount paid for education of orphans		13,618 98

Total receipts (Virginia, Mississippi, Texas, Maine, Vermont and Iowa not included)		1,760,138 27
Whole number of Subordinate Encampments		[illegible]
Whole number of initiations		[illegible]
Whole number of members		[illegible]
Total relief		$ 64,[illegible] 12
Total receipts		[illegible]
Total relief, Lodges and Encampments		[illegible]
Total receipts		1,[illegible] 72

In reference to these statistics the Odd Fellow says:

The above expose of the present status of our beloved Order cannot but rejoice and "make exceeding glad" every one who has at heart the earnest, prayerful desire to see Odd Fellowship and its heaven-born principles extend to the uttermost parts of the earth.

The returns do not include those from the jurisdictions of Vermont, Mississippi and Texas, from which the annual reports have not been received. Taking their last figures as the criterion, and adding them to the above aggregates, we have the sum total of 2,893 lodges, 214,462 members, and an increase during the past year of 29,119 members—showing, on the same basis of calculation, an augmentation of 573 in the number of lodges.

Thus the order is rapidly gaining ground; thus our benificent labor and achievements are becoming known and are appreciated by the innumerable multitude that stand waiting at the door of our fold, only desiring to see that our works comport with our faith, ere they confidently knock for admission; and we bid the worthy welcome; we cheerfully say to all who can and will be true to the sublimely beautiful covenant of the household of faith, "come ye that hunger for the bread of love, and ye shall be filled."

Sparkman, a contestant for a seat in the Tennessee House of Representatives, and who was admitted Wednesday, played it fine on that body. Approaching some of the Brownlow people, he said: "Look here, fellows, let's reason together. I'm a contestant for a seat in the Lower House. The Committee on Elections hasn't reported in my favor, but still I want to get in to vote for the Governor. Fix it for me." He went to the Maynard people, and said the same thing. The consequence was that both parties "fixed" it, and he was admitted without any trouble. When his name was called, he rang out in a defiant voice—"Stokes!"

The Cotton Crop for the Season of 1867.

Interesting Statistics from the Agricultural Bureau.

A new Governor Appointed for Honduras

End of the Rebellion in Hayti.

WASHINGTON, October 26.—The following is a return of the cotton crop for 1867, taken from the Bureau of Statistics: The returns are from 484 divisions—several yet to hear from, and show that 5,067,025 acres had been planted in cotton, and that the estimated yield is 1,568,357 bales of 450 pounds each, equal to 1,764,401 bales of 400 pounds each, the latter being the weight assumed in the census drawn. They are drawn as low, yet include middling white in the phraseology. Congress, at its last session, tried to change it, but the President pocketed the bill.

HAVANA, October 25.—Advices from Belize to the 20th state that Governor Austin has been relieved on account of illegal authority shown to emigrants from the Southern States, in giving them crown lands. All grants made by him have been annulled by the British Government; and James Langdon has been appointed his successor as Governor of Honduras.

An arrival from Hayti brings intelligence that the rebellion against the authority of Salnave has ended. The Haytien army assaulted the stronghold of the rebels near the frontier of St. Domingo on the 10th instant, and on the following day carried the place with the bayonet. The revolutionists fled into St. Domingo. The Haytien Government has since issued a proclamation suspending the state of siege.

NEW YORK, October 26.—Gold opened at 141⅞, and has since advanced to 142⅛, at eleven o'clock. Exchange steady. Cotton, demand good and prices tending upwards; ordinary, 16c.

Do It, if You Dare.

It seems inconceivable why the Government should refuse to surrender the remains of John Wilkes Booth to his aged mother, especially as the remains are to be taken up on account of improvements to be made in the arsenal grounds at Washington, where they are interred. What has the assassin's mother done that her tears must be treated with such inhumanity? Is she to be held at all responsible for her son's guilt? It is not even hinted that she or Edwin Booth ever sympathized with the deceased in his wicked act. Why should they be punished for his misdeeds? Has not the law been satisfied? Is not justice content? or are we a nation of savages, and yearn to wreak an undying vengeance now upon the corpse of a legal victim? Christianity—not to say a decent sense of propriety—demands that the aged mother should not plead in vain for the body of her son. We were done with it as soon as the breath was out of it. It belongs to her who first gave it birth, when it encased a sinless soul. Give it up to her.

But stop. Horrible thought! Perhaps Wilkes Booth is not dead at all. Perhaps the stories so industriously circulated to that effect have substantial foundation. Perhaps the midnight burial of the corpse—perhaps all the mystery and secresy thrown around that interment were only part and parcel of a solemn farce played upon a confiding country by the late Secretary of War, Mr. Stanton, and his unscrupulous "friend," Detective General Baker. Perhaps the one hundred thousand dollars reward paid to Baker and his associates were really handed over under a "mistake," some other person being shot instead of Wilkes Booth, and some other corpse furtively buried. We are loth to credit such a romance; but this withholding of the remains (which could hardly be identified now) is exactly the kind of a movement to keep such suspicions in active circulation. We do not credit these thrilling surmises; but the world is full of people who will, besides those who do, if such a fear so exhibit the alleged remains can be fastened upon our Federal authorities. Common sense would say surrender the body at once, and so console the weeping mother in her grief, and set forever at rest these plausible stories about Booth's escape and a grand imposition palmed off upon the nation.—New York Times.

Through the Military Mill.

Mr. Milton Malone, whose arrest we noticed some time since, has returned home, having gone through the military mill. He was taken to one Swayne, a brevet officer, but full rank Radical, in Montgomery, who kept him in durance vile for several days, before he discovered that the military had nothing to do with the case. A lieutenant and six soldiers, armed with six shooters and rifles, then carried Mr. Malone to Selma, and turned him over to the civil authorities who had no charge against him. Mr. Malone finally hired a lawyer to prosecute himself, and the soldier said to have been shot was sent for. He swore that he had never seen Mr. Malone before, was not shot badly or hurt much, and did not know who did it. Mr. Malone was released on a bond of two hundred dollars. This is a fair specimen of the way in which Pope and his strikers help the civil law to administer justice.—Columbus (Ga.) Sun, 18th.

A Card.

THE conduct of the Gas Company toward me, at the Crystal Palace, has been so outrageous that I deem it proper to make a statement of the same that the many customers of the establishment may know the reason gas is no longer used. At an expense of one thousand dollars I had gas fittings placed throughout the house. The gas bills, about thirty-five dollars per week, have been paid with prompt regularity. What was my astonishment when called upon to pay or give my note for $101 for bringing the gas pipe from the main on Front street to the saloon, may be imagined. I positively refused to comply with what I though an unjust and untenable exaction, which was evidently an after thought, and sprung from motives of avarice merely. If it be the custom, I have yet to learn it, and regard it as an act of despotism to which I am unwilling to submit. In my absence from the saloon, the meters were removed, which I should certainly not have permitted if I had been present. When such high handed outrage can be committed, it is high time there was competition. Had I been derelict in paying all proper bills, I could have made no objection, but when they were paid, and only an unjust demand presented to make me pay for bringing the pipe to the alley on which the saloon stands, I declined to be so victimized for the benefit of a Company, which is admitted on all hands to be soulless. The merchant who wishes to sell goods, must open his doors, and the Company that desires to dispose of its gas should introduce its pipes to the convenience of its customers. Since I have been in business, I have not paid less than $10,000 to this Company, and the public would scarcely believe that such a return would be made to so prompt a customer.

SUNDAY, : : : : : : : : OCTOBER 27, 1867

THE members of the Tennessee Legislature seem to think that they have been sent to Nashville for the purpose of apportioning out the people's money among themselves. There is a scramble as to who can steal the more. At the last session, the votes of RICHARDS and SMITH were purchased for a consideration, but they must have a capacious maw, as we understand they are still nosing out swindling jobs. We learn that either one or both of these scoundrels have secured ferry privileges—or the privilege of building toll bridges over the branches, rivulets and creeks on every road leading into Memphis, and they will soon be reaping a rich harvest from this new mode of stealing the people's money. SMITH is not satisfied with the amount of property he has stolen by tax-title purchases; but he has commenced stealing upon the public highways by a system which is no less than highway robbery. We trust that one of these little streams over which SMITH proposes to ferry, and then rob his neighbors of their small change, will prove to him the river Styx, and that he will soon cross over to that perdition to which all such Christless villains are doomed.

"Give, give," is the shiboleth, the slogan cry of the Tennessee Legislature. The members, we are told, meet at night like rogues and assassins, and concoct all sorts of villainous schemes for plundering the public. At the last session these freebooters created new offices, in order that some of their own brigands might be fed from the public crib. The wants of the people, internal improvements, the credit of the State, the public good, the prosperity of the Commonwealth—everything for which members used to labor, is lost sight of in a morbid effort to hatch some plan to despoil the tax paying people of their hard earnings. A few days since the House passed a bill appointing a committee to confer with the delegates to Congress, in regard to an appropriation for losses by loyal citizens during the war. If Congress should pass such a bill, claims will be trumped up amounting to a hundred millions of dollars, for Radical blood-suckers care nothing for the sanctity of an oath, or the suffering of a tax-ridden people, so long as they can batten upon public pap. The Indemnity Bill is still before the Legislature. If it should pass, bankrupts—men who have lived in squalid poverty, whose houses were the abodes of gaunt Famine, whose dirt-eating, vermiperous children were steeped in ignorance, lived in rags, and wallowed in filth—will come forward and swear and prove that they have been brought from luxury and affluence to beggary, ignorance, dirt and rags. As evidence of the beauties of this Indemnity bill, we would give a case in point. Presuming the bill would pass, a Radical of this city claims losses to the amount of twenty thousand dollars, when the records of our courts show that executions have been returned against this damaged patriot for the last twenty years, with the invariable indorsement—"No property found."

The whole proceedings of the Radical Legislature of this State shows a perversity of disposition and a depth of degradation not often reached by mankind. Politics, as conducted by these trafficking creatures, is demoralizing to the last degree. Among all the nations of the earth, whether wholly or but partially civilized, a man's honor is estimated above all price, by those who have any claim to respectability. The thief so regards it, in his intercourse with his fellow, and loses caste, even among his depraved associates, if he departs from the sentiment. The professional gambler, no matter how immoral he may be in other respects, or to what strait of desperation he may be driven by his losses, clings to his honor to the last, and when compelled to break his faith, snaps it and the chord of life together. A nice sense of honor is what ennobles human nature, in both man and woman. In the iron age of the world, when "might made right," the songs of the Troubadours and the lances of the Chevaliers, rang out their notes of honor in unison, and condemned to a wretched existence the knight who violated its sacred emotions. The rude soldier of that age clasped his honor tightly to his heart, and yielded it not even with his latest breath. What feeling animated EDWARD the Black Prince, DU GUESELIN and the Chevalier BAYARD, and made them lights of example to mankind? Nothing but honor—deep, abiding, faithful and valiant. It gives energy to the mind, strength to the purpose, kindness to the heart, sensitiveness to all the emotional parts of our nature, light to the countenance, and an irresistible valor for the right which can never be defeated. God implanted it deep in the human breast, that it might not be easily be plucked from its home in the heart. Its beams play in the luster of the eye, and reveals its presence in the aspect of the face. Proudly erect, it holds man to his degree a "little below the angels;" but bids him aspire to be even above the angelic host. This is the true mission of honor; but oh! how despised and disgraced are all its ennobling qualities by the Tennessee Legislature, and particularly by the two knaves from this county, who sold their principles—their honor—for "filthy lucre." They hold rascality as a thing of pride, and strive, with fanatical zeal, to debase the public mind down to their own base standard of honor and morality. Can a people deserving of liberty be anything but slaves when ruled by such a gang? Verily, we have fallen on evil times. Our Legislature is debased. The stream cannot be pure when the fountain is corrupt.

AMONG those who gave their lives to the Lost Cause were many ministers of our holy religion. No one can ever forget the warrior Bishop, the great and good General POLK. A scholar of the highest order, a gentleman in the loftiest sense, a soldier of unsurpassed valor, and a Christian of irreproachable excellence, he fell on the field, where the brave love to die. Nothing that our poor pen could write can add to the glory of this Christian hero. There were others, less distinguished, whose names we desire to rescue from oblivion. B. T. CROUCH, of Aberdeen, Mississippi, was chaplain to a Mississippi regiment. He was a Kentuckian, with all the chivalry, and high mettle, and noble bearing of a HELM or a BRECKINRIDGE. Eloquent in the pulpit, zealous for the cause of his Master, fervent in prayer, he ever won the confidence of the Southern soldiers. Although not required by his position as chaplain to encounter the dangers of the field, he determined to share with the brave men who listened to his sermons all the fortunes of war. As zealous for the cause of the South as was PETER the Hermit, Mr. CROUCH determined to peril his life on the bloody field of Shiloh. Aroused, too, by the noble and eloquent address of his brother Kentuckian, ALBERT SYDNEY JOHNSTON, he was anxious for the fray, and never did Christian knight meet more gallantly the infidel Saracen than did he meet the hosts of Yankees on the banks of the Tennessee. Urging the men to fight for their homes and firesides—for their altars and sires—for God and their native land—this humble and talented Methodist preacher fell with his face to the foe. We never can forget Kentucky—her great JOHNSTON—her exiled BRECKINRIDGE—her chivalrous HELM—her chosen Governor—fighting in the ranks, and her many private soldiers, ever foremost in the fray, always patient on the march and the last to surrender. She sent no more gallant son, no more devoted Christian, no braver hero, whose blood was poured out like water on the soil which he felt bound to defend than was B. T. CROUCH. The fall of Selma is well remembered by FORREST'S cavalry. Overpowered by four times our number, as many as could followed the lead of the indomitable FORREST and escaped from the ruins of a city they were not able to protect. Two christian heroes fought side by side. They were the Rev. Dr. BALDWIN of the Methodist Church, and the Rev. Mr. SMALL of the Presbyterian Church. When required to retreat, they did so with a quiet calmness becoming Christians. They were walking leisurely to their homes, conversing sadly on the fall of their beloved city, when some Yankee troopers came galloping up to them. In a moment, though they were discovered, Mr. SMALL was shot down. He fell dead! This was civilized warfare. In sight of his home, this good man gave up his pure spirit into the hands of the Good Being whom he loved and honored. He was a man of the deepest piety, gentle and good, wise and virtuous, brave and patriotic. The blow fell heavily upon his family, and was severely felt by the entire community. All that knew him loved and honored him. Like our own great and good C. A. DAVIS, whom we consigned only last Sabbath to his last resting place, he was the property of the whole Church. No sect can ever appropriate to itself all of a great and good man. This holy Sabbath is for all. Its sacred associations, its holy altars, its sacred melodies, its mute appeals are for all. It is God's day, and made for the universe. So is the great heart of a great man. It throbs for the world. And when it ceases to beat, those who felt its warm pulsations feel for the time a sadness which no language can express, a void which nothing can fill. Such and so good were these ministers of God, who gave up their noble lives for the lost cause.

WE see from the proceedings of the Tennessee Legislature that Mr. RODGERS has introduced a bill making cruelty to animals an indictable offense. We are for the bill provided it will not disturb us if we should occasionally flog a donkey like the editor of the Bulletin, or kick a sapajou like NELSON H. GILL, of Holly Springs. If Radicalism in its many usurpations, should deprive us of this luxury, we will be forced to exclaim, with the immortal poet, that

> "Things have come to a de'il of a pass
> When a man can't wollop his own jackass."

Colonel James Melines, in his recent lecture before the New York historical society, said there are not less than five considerable streams in America, each of which bear the name of Red river.

Another of our countrywomen has taken a French husband. Miss Kearny, daughter of General Phil. Kearny, who lost his life at Chantilly during the war, has married Mons. de Kermel, a wealthy Norman gentleman.

The greatest "home-run" ever made by base ballers, was performed recently by a lot of young men at Hannibal, Missouri. Some wicked person put croton oil in their refreshments, of which they partook freely on the ground, but none of them remained to see the game out.

The greatest number of deaths from yellow fever in one week in New Orleans, during the great epidemic, was 480. That was the week ending September 29. In 1855 it reached nearly that figure several different days.

Wild pigeons by the wagon load are brought into Little Rock for sale. They bring fifty cents a dozen. The Gazette says that "two gentlemen residing below the city, killed twelve hundred pigeons with their shot guns, on Monday morning last, on the Keatts bar, twelve miles below town."

The organization of a body of ten thousand militiamen in Maryland has set the Radicals crazy. It is an evidence of vitality in a State which they supposed to be almost extinct. What right, think the Radicals, has Maryland to organize her militia, and what does she mean to do with them? No questions are asked why Pennsylvania and New York, and all the other States which the Radicals permit to be in the Union, have organized bodies of militia.

The Vicksburg Times, of the 24th, says of the health of that city: "We have but little change to report in the sanitary condition of the city. Contrary to our hopes and wishes, night before last, we had no rain, though the weather was quite cool throughout the day yesterday. The number of new cases of fever were not so numerous yesterday as the day before, and the condition of a number of those seriously ill, was reported to be better last evening. It is idle to indulge in speculations which an hour may dispel, and therefore we forbear."

The King of Prussia, notwithstanding his fierce looks, is a very mild-tempered man. His servants say that he has never scolded them yet, and mention, among other anecdotes in proof of this assertion, that one day last winter the King, by the neglect of a servant, was suddenly covered by a cloud of soot from the chimney, while he was writing at his desk. The King rang the bell, and when the guilty footman came in, pale and trembling, the King said to him very meekly: "John, I have had a little accident; help me to clean my clothes, and carry my desk to another room. I believe I cannot work here to-day."

General Grant reports that General Pope has ordered that Captain Morris Schaff, commanding the United States arsenal at Mount Vernon, Alabama, be tried upon the charge of the murder of Frederick B. Shepard, a citizen of that State. It will be recollected that the homicide grew out of an acrimonious correspondence between Schaff and Shepard, which ended in the latter challenging the former to fight a duel. Schaff had Shepard arrested, and brought within the arsenal, and, it is alleged, instantly shot him, the ball taking effect in the neck. Shepard lingered some days and died. Meantime Schaff was tried by a courtmartial for conduct unbecoming an officer, and found guilty. These proceedings will be annulled, and the trial for murder go on.

Virginia Election—Success of the Radicals

The Latest Foreign Intelligence by Cable

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, October 26.

General Thomas' report to General Grant on the subject of the municipal election at Nashville will be published Monday. It comprises the correspondence by telegraph between these officers in reply to enquiries respecting his duty. General Grant explicitly informed General Thomas that his duty was to prevent collision. If Brownlow should issue an order declaring insurrection or invasion to exist, and too formidable to be put down by State troops, and ask aid from the United States, then aid should be given. General Thomas was not to interfere or meddle in political differences, but if thus called on legally to interfere his duty was plain. The conclusion of the report is in Thomas' own language: "The election is over—all quiet."

Receipts of internal revenue for the week, $2,990,272; for fiscal year to date, $67,789,000.

The President has issued a proclamation recommending the 28th of November to be observed as a day of national thanksgiving.

The monthly debt statement for the present month will show a contraction of four millions of currency.

The amount of fractional currency printed during the past week is $572,320; shipped, 572,644. National bank currency issued, 24,890. Currency redeemed and destroyed, $337,800. Receipts for customs for the week ending the 19th, $2,895,768.

RICHMOND.

RICHMOND, October 26.

John H. Gilmore filed with General Schofield, a formal protest, as a resident of Richmond, against the counting of any vote recorded at any of the precincts after sunset, Wednesday evening.

Official returns indicate the election of thirty Conservatives and sixty Radicals—eighteen of the latter colored. Sixty-five counties give 70,777 for and 44,950 against Convention. A number of counties yet to be heard from. The polls closed at Richmond at one o'clock Thursday morning, with 450 majority for Hunnicutt. Mr. Gilmer's protest holds that the clause of the supplemental bill which provides that thirty days public notice shall be given of the time of holding the election, limits the General to the time designated in his order. He also denounces the shameless frauds brought about by Colonel Raze, superintendent of election.

Considerable excitement has been caused by the fact that two citizens of Richmond, one a prominent tobacco manufacturer, had been ordered by a vigilance committee of negroes to leave the city within forty-eight hours. Their offence was violent opposition to the Radical ticket.

OBITUARY.

To short sighted mortals the dispensation of an over-ruling Providence can never be understood, yet we should bow with resignation to the fiat of the Almighty.

Mrs. MATILDA REID, consort of John Reid, Esq., of this city, and daughter of Geo. Montgomery, deceased, died on the morning of the 23d of October, after a short illness. This simple announcement will fill with grief and sorrow the hearts of all who knew her. Gentle, modest, retiring and womanly in her manner and disposition, she won the admiration and esteem of all who were fortunate enough to know her; but to husband, father, sister and brother, she was doubly dear, and to them her loss is greatest. She was the idol of her household, as she was the beloved of her circle of friends—by all her memory will be cherished so long as life lasts. She has been taken from this world to be clothed in the robe of immortality. She rests from the trials of this life—we trust she rejoices in Heaven.

Trustee's Sale.

UNDER and by virtue of a trust deed to me executed by John H. Waggener on the 1st day of April, 1867, and duly recorded in the Register's office of Shelby county, Tenn., in book No. 60, part 3, pages 36, 37 and 38, I will,

On Friday, the 29th day of November, 1867,

Between the hours of ten a. m. and four p. m., on the premises, sell at public sale to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described real estate, lying in Shelby county, Tenn., being a part of lot No. 15, in subdivision C, in the partition of the estate of A. B. Carr, at a stake in the Pigeon Roost road, north 16 degrees, east 51 links from a poplar marked C, and thence south 20 chains 81 links to a stake south 5 degrees west 151½ links from a poplar marked H; thence north 84½ degrees west 7 chains 58 links to F. Reisair's line; thence north 16 chains 83 links to the Pigeon Roost road; thence south 87 degrees east with said road 7 chains 79½ links to the beginning, containing about fourteen acres. Said tract of land is the place formerly owned by Samuel Mansfield, and by him sold to H. A. Montgomery, having an elegant dwelling, outhouse, etc., etc., and one of the finest places in the State. The said deed of trust was executed to secure the payment of the deferred purchase money, amounting to twenty-five thousand five hundred and sixty-one dollars, ($25,561,) matured and unpaid. Title perfect. Right of redemption waived. Possession given on the day of sale. Terms complied with.

JOHN JOHNSON, Trustee.

To facilitate the sale of the above property, I will at the same time sell at a bargain the household furniture, etc., etc., and will take pleasure in showing property to those desiring to purchase, and guaranteeing title to said premises.

POSITIVE AND UNRESERVED SALE OF A
PLEASANT SUBURBAN RESIDENCE
Three Miles East of the City.

WE will sell to the highest bidder, ON THURSDAY, October 31, at 12 o'clock, at our Salesroom, No. 24 Second street, the pleasant Suburban Residence occupied by Charles Mosby, Esq., just south of Union avenue, in the desirable neighborhood of Rev. Mr. Young, Mr. Estes, Mr. Harbert and others, three miles east of the city.

The place contains about five acres, with a good dwelling for a small family; fine water, and an orchard of finest fruit, apples, peaches, pears, etc.

The owner is determined to sell WITHOUT RESERVE, and upon easy terms, to-wit: $1,000 cash, and the balance on one and two years with interest.

TEN YEARS' CREDIT!
56 Suburban Lots,
NEAR MEMPHIS,
At Public Sale on Ten Years' Time.

I PROPOSE to sell at public sale, to the highest bidder on THURSDAY, the 14th of November, 1867, about three hundred acres Field and Forest Land, on my Homestead Tract, situated three miles east of Memphis, at the head of Union avenue, and lying between Central avenue and the Old State Line road. The most popular street pavements being now in process of construction in Memphis, good turnpikes or street railways on the roads leading from the city directly through this property, must soon follow, thereby affording the most reasonable probability of its great and rapid enhancement of value.

In stating the advantages of this property, I would specially refer to the HEALTH of the locality as having been always considered equal if not superior to that of any portion of the city environs; while the high character of the neighborhood, and the provision made for CHURCH AND SCHOOL PRIVILEGES, combine to render it one of the most desirable points for suburban residence within the vicinity of Memphis afforded.

The TITLE to this property has been vested in my father and myself for thirty years without interruption, and is free from any incumbrance.

Plans of the Property may be had at the Office of the Auctioneers. The Avenues are opened and the Lots numbered, so as to be examined at any time before the Sale.

BEING DETERMINED TO SELL, I shall offer the following liberal

TERMS:

One-tenth Cash, the balance in TEN ANNUAL INSTALLMENTS, with interest from date. Warranty Deeds given, and Trust Deeds taken, waiving redemption. These terms will make it very easy for any one to secure a pleasant Home, which must constantly increase in value and comfort, as the growth of Memphis continues.

One Thing is Certain

THAT however widely great men may differ, there is a large majority of doctors, lawyers and divines throughout the South who so assert that Dr. Williams' Pulmonic Balsam of Wild Cherry and Wood Naptha is the only certain cure for Pneumonia, Asthma, Bronchitis, Diptheria, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Strength, Whooping Cough, Catarrh, Pleurisy, Difficult Breathing, and all diseases of the Chest and Lungs; and a certain and sure cure for Consumption in its early stages. This is not hearsay, for there are thousands of living witnesses to day ready to testify who have been cured by this great discovery. Hear what some of our most eminent physicians of the South say. The distinguished Dr. Boon, of Macon, Ga., says, that "IN EVERY CASE, he found this preparation to be a reliable and good remedy for all Pulmonary affections, and takes pleasure in recommending it as a reliable anodyne, expectorant, etc."

Dr. Tennant, of Marietta, Ga., a physician of deservedly high reputation as an able and experienced practitioner of medicine, entertains and expresses the same opinion, and recommends it extensively in his practice.

Dr. P. M. Cohen, of Charleston, S. C., a gentleman of well known reputation, and a wholesale dealer of large amount of drugs and medicines, recommends it in the highest terms and uses it, exclusive of all other remedies, in his family, with the most satisfactory results.

And we might add even thousands of certificates of like recommendations of this medicine, all of which would only consume time in reading for no purpose, as this great medicine is too well known throughout the South, where it has been in use for the last twenty-five years to need any further recommendation than this—that ALL who have used it once are not satisfied to be without it; and so great has been the demand, that it has been only recently that we have been able to make such arrangements for its manufacture as will enable us to supply the great demand that is made on us daily by the jobbing and leading druggists and other dealers throughout the South.

Having established our Laboratory at the well known wholesale drug house of J. B. Wasson & Co., of this city, we are now prepared to fill all orders without delay, which will be promptly met, (to the trade only) and must be addressed to

FRENCH MEDICINES PREPARED BY GRIMAULT & COMPANY
Chemists to His Imperial Highness Prince Napoleon.

THESE different medicines represent the most recent medical discoveries, founded on the principles of chemistry and therapeutics. They must not be confounded with secret or quack medicines, as their names sufficiently indicate their composition; a circumstance which has caused them to be appreciated and prescribed by the faculty in the whole world. They widely differ from those numerous medicines advertised in the public papers as able to cure every possible disease, as they are applicable only to but a very few complaints. The most stringent laws exist in France with regard to the sale of medical preparations, and only those which have undergone an examination by the Academy of Medicine, and have been proved efficacious, either in the Hospitals or in the practice of the first medical men, are authorized by the government. This fact must be a guarantee for the excellence of Messrs. GRIMAULT & CO.'S medicines.

Dr. Leras' (Doctor of Medicine) Liquid Phosphate of Iron.

The newest and most esteemed medicine in cases of CHLOROSIS, PAINS IN THE STOMACH, DIFFICULT DIGESTION, DISMENORRHEA, ANEMIA, GENERAL DEBILITY and POORNESS OF BLOOD. It is particularly recommended to regulate the functions of nature, and to all ladies of delicate constitution, as well as to persons suffering under any kind of debility whatsoever. It is the preservative of health par excellence in all warm and relaxing climates.

No More Cod Liver Oil—Grimault's Syrup of Iodized Horse Radish.

This medicine has been administered with the utmost success in the hospitals of Paris. It is a perfect substitute for COD LIVER OIL, and has been found most beneficial in DISEASES OF THE CHEST, SCROFULA, LYMPHATIC DISORDERS, GREEN SICKNESS, MUSCULAR ATONY and LOSS OF APPETITE. It regenerates the constitution in purifying the blood, it being the most powerful depurative known. It has also been applied with happy results in DISEASES OF THE SKIN. Further, it will be found to be of great benefit to young children subject to HUMORS and OBSTRUCTION OF THE GLANDS.

Consumption Cured—Grimault's Syrup of Hypophosphite of Lime.

This new medicine is considered to be a sovereign remedy in cases of PHTHISIS and other DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It promptly removes all the most serious symptoms. The cough is relieved, night perspirations cease, and the patient is rapidly restored to health.

N. B.—Be sure to see that the signature of GRIMAULT & CO. is affixed to the bottle, as this syrup is liable to imitations.

No More Difficult or Painful Digestion—Dr. Burin du Buisson's (Laureate of the Paris Imperial Academy of Medicine) Digestive Lozenges.

This delicious preparation is always prescribed by the most reputed medical men in France in cases of derangements of the digestive functions, such as GASTRITIS, GASTRALGIA, LONG AND LABORIOUS DIGESTION, wind in the stomach and bowels, EMACIATION, JAUNDICE and COMPLAINTS OF THE LIVER AND LOINS.

Nervous Headaches, Neuralgia, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Instantly Cured by Grimault's Guarana.

This vegetable substance, which grows in the Brazils, has been employed since time immemorial to cure INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS. It has proved of late to be of the greatest service in cases of CHOLERA, as it is preventive and a cure in cases of Diarrhea.

Ferro Manganic Powder, prepared by Burin du Buisson, approved by the Academy of Medicine in Paris.

A small quantity of this powder in a glass of water is sufficient to obtain instantly an effervescing mineral and gaseous water to be drank at meals, either pure or mixed with wine.

It is a most valuable medicine for persons suffering from Chlorosis, Stomach Aches, and for Ladies suffering from Difficult or Suspended Menstruation. It is especially recommended to persons unable to digest the ordinary medicines containing iron. This celebrated preparation has the advantage to prevent a tendency to constipation, and to contain a certain portion of manganese, considered by the most eminent medical men as indispensable in every treatment by ferruginous medicines.

No More Copaiba and Cubebs—Grimault's Capsules and Liquid Extract of Matico Vegetable.

Where all other medicines have failed these preparations will always effect a cure. They insure rapid and extraordinary cure of severe, recent and chronic cases of private disease. They are used in the hospitals of Paris by the celebrated Dr. Ricord, and are found greatly superior to all hitherto known mineral remedies and copaiba and cubebs. The injection is used in recent and capsules in the more chronic cases.

The congregation worshipping at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, on Court street, are requested by the Sexton to attend there this, Sunday, morning, at the usual hour.

Services at Grace church to-day, at eleven o'clock a.m., and seven and a half p.m., by the Rector, Rev. B. F. Brooke. Sunday school at nine o'clock a.m.

SHELBY CIRCUIT COURT.—Meets in special session for two weeks on Monday next, October 28.

CHANCERY COURT—William M. Smith, Chancellor, etc.—The November term of this court commences on Monday, November 4.

NOT DEAD.—The report of the death of George Stahl, Esq., was untrue. He appeared yesterday on the street, and was greeted cordially by numerous friends.

THANKS.—Our thanks are returned to Mr. George Rohr for late Nashville papers. He has been at Nashville several days, attending, as a delegate, the sessions of the Grand Lodge of Sons of Temperance of the State.

LAW COURT—Judge Pierce Presiding, etc.—The June and October terms convene on Monday, October 28, pursuant to adjournment. All jurors summoned will attend promptly, or defaults will be taken against them.

CRIMINAL COURT.—The October term of this court commences, pursuant to adjournment, on Monday, October 28. All jurors summoned to attend will appear on that day, or forfeitures will be taken against them.

STAGNATION.—Not a single dollar was collected by Commissioner Richards yesterday; and up to a late hour last night but one single "case" was inducted into the Central station. We are getting moral.

THE RAPE CASE.—The negro Jim Patterson, arrested day before yesterday on the charge of outraging the person of a white woman named Lucy Stone, was yesterday discharged from custody, the prosecution not appearing.

DRY GOODS THIEF.—Bill White, a negro and pal of Claibourne's, the negro porter at Elson's dry goods store, was yesterday committed by 'Squire Miller on the charge of stealing a bolt of cloth, valued at $40.

The friends and customers of Saunders, Jones & Co. will be pleased to learn that they have fully repaired the damage done to their job printing office by the late fire, and have removed to the south corner of Madison and Front streets. They do fine work at low rates. Give them a call.

BALSAM.—We call attention to the advertisement in another column of Dr. C. Williams' Balsam of Wild Cherry and Wood Naptha. It is highly spoken of by competent judges as a most effectual cure for all diseases of the throat and lungs. It is for sale by J. B. Wasson, 318 Main street, and by druggists everywhere.

The following telegrams remain uncalled for in the office: A. K. Gamble, jr., R. R. Pittman, Davis & Norton, Mercer, Ware & Talley, M. Pyne, Lawrence & Carter, J. W. Jefferson & Co., Foster, Gwynn & Co., N Greenwald, Hon. G. W. Waldron, George G. Weidrig, Captain Frank Hicks, W. W. White.

NOT STOLEN.—There was a complaint entered day before yesterday at police headquarters, by Mr. A. H. Guisse that his pocket-book, containing about $200, had been purloined from him. It was all a mistake—it was found by the officer, on a search in his bed, between the mattresses. How it came there is, however, a mystery.

MERCANTILE PRINTING.—We direct attention to the advertisement of the Franklin Job Printing office, to be found in our columns this morning. Mr. Toof has recently received a splendid assortment of card, billhead and circular stock, and will fill all orders for letter heads, envelops, tags, checks, receipts, etc., with neatness and dispatch.

ANOTHER "LUNG."—The new public square on Charleston avenue, just beyond the conjunction of Jefferson with that street, has been, within the past few days, enclosed with a neat and substantial wooden fence. We are glad of this, for our city cannot have too many such "lungs."

STEALING.—Paschal Claibourne, a negro, was arrested yesterday, on the information of Tim White, another thief, for stealing dry goods. It appears that White was a porter at Elson's, and was detected day before yesterday in his pilferings, and he informed upon his brother shade in a fit of spleen at the non-success of his own operations.

A PRIZE BAT!—Our base ball players should drop down to Jas. G. Moffatt's, No. 348 Main street, and take a look at the beautiful base ball bat he has there on exhibition. It is made of mahogany, is beautifully silver mounted, and would prove a most excellent trophy to be in the possession of any one of our crack clubs. Cannot the boys get up a match for it, and let it be held as the champion bat?

PARIS EXPOSITION.—We were yesterday shown a sample of cigars branded "La Exposition," which, upon trial, proved to be most excellent. Our appreciation of the fragrant weed was heightened when we were informed that it was the Emperor's favorite brand. In fact, we are not surprised that it should be the favorite of any one, for we like it, and we have taste. John K. Speed has the article. Read his advertisement.

MORTUARY.—The following is the report of the deaths for the week ending at twelve o'clock Saturday, October 26: Yellow fever, 36; pneumonia, 1; premature birth, 1; diarrhea, 3; congestion, 8; remittent fever, 3; bilious fever, 2; menorrhagia, 1; accident, 1; unknown 3; diptheria, 1; old age, 4; convulsions, 2; consumption, 2; cholera infantum, 1; marasmus, 1; enteni fever, 2; gastroenterity, 1; organic disease of the stomach, 1; cholera, 2; peritonitis, 1; dysentery, 1.
W. E. ROGERS, M. D., Secretary Board of Health.

LIFE ASSURANCE.—Geo. W. L. Crook, we would inform our readers, is the agent of the European Life Assurance Society of London, beyond doubt one of the best companies in the world, possessing at the present moment a capital of $5,000,000 in gold, and owning a surplus of $3,000,000. What better company could be found than this, particularly when we tell our readers that death by suicide, by the hands of justice, or duelling, does not deprive the holder of a policy from the benefits of his insurance? Mr. Crook can be found at 279½ Main street.

DOCTOR LUKE S. BLACKBURN.—This courteous gentleman and distinguished physician, is at present at the Gayoso. We understand that he has tendered his services to the Mayor, for the treatment of such of our people as are unable to pay for professional attention, who may be stricken down by the prevailing epidemic. We have no doubt but this creditable and generous offer will be accepted, and that Dr. Blackburn will at once renew his contact with a disease with which he has had great experience, and in healing which he has earned so much reputation.

CHARITABLE.—Some unknown person dropped in yesterday morning into the room of the Howard Association, and left lying on the table twenty-five dollars, and made no mention of it. We understand that the contributions received yesterday morning amounted to over two hundred dollars. We are glad of it, as this benevolent organization is at the present time under heavy expenses, and is doing wonders towards the alleviation of the distress in our midst. The young men comprising the organization deserve well at the hands of our people.

MAIN STREET.—Energy stalks abroad on Main street; it is tearing its venerable proportions asunder; it is laying the Nicolson pavement; gangs of energetic laborers are making it a fitting passway for unenergetic males and, (not to put too fine a point upon it,) the shopping population. In fact, Taylor, McBain & Co., are laying the dust, drying up the mud, and making Main street a street worthy a city, instead of being, as it was last year, a "slough of despond." Near Union street the blocks are being laid, and every auspicious omen points to the full, prompt and early completion of the paving of the street.

ANOTHER GOOD CITIZEN GONE.—We are pained to have to record the death of Dr. T. J. Sale, an old and much respected citizen and physician of this city. He died at five o'clock yesterday morning, at his residence on Adams street. A few days ago the Doctor was seized with congestion, and sank so rapidly that the best medical assistance, and the most careful nursing availed not, and he died in years and honors, mourned, we might say, by the whole community, for no body of society could afford to lose such a man. Dr. Sale leaves a wife and large family, who, in this their great affliction, must and will receive the sympathies of each and every feeling heart.

MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE.—The mutual plan of life insurance is by all means the best, and we know of no better company for its practice than can be found in the Phœnix Mutual, of Hartford, of which S. D. McClure, No. 16 Jefferson street, is the efficient and gentlemanly agent. No man having a family or relation dependent upon him should, in these days, be without a policy of insurance. It is the part of providence and wisdom to the helpless little ones who may be at any moment left unprotected, and we look upon money thus invested as so much laid aside for future use. We would again commend to our readers the Phœnix, of Hartford, and its able agent in this city, Mr. McClure.

Emmons & Son, No. 10 Jefferson street, and 293 Main street, have received Frank Leslie's Police News, Independent, New York Weekly, Boys and Girls' Weekly, Staats Zeitung, New York Clipper, Metropolitan Record, Turf, Field and Farm, Irish Citizen (John Mitchel's new paper), Irish People, Irish American, New York Ledger, Chimney Corner, Literary Album, Boston Pilot, Banner of Light, Harper's Magazine, Frank Leslie's Lady's Book, Atlantic Monthly, Godey's Lady's Book—all for November; London Art Journal and every Saturday, for October. Call at Emmons & Son's, and get your supply for Sunday.

PAID OVER.—Manager Thompson yesterday paid over to the credit of Mrs. G. P. Foute $468 70, as the proceeds of the late benefit for the yellow fever sufferers. There are a number of tickets still in the hands of gentlemen, unaccounted for, and when the full returns are in, the amount will show much larger. Mrs. Foute, we understand, will propose the organization of a society of ladies for its distribution among the widows and orphans consigned to our care by the ravages of the late sickness. Other measures will be taken to add to the fund, so as to make it a practical blessing to the unfortunate; and we know of no more charitable undertaking for our ladies to engage in than in furthering her noble endeavors. We would also suggest that those who were unable to attend the performance can do quite as much good by sending their dollar to Captain Pritchard, the President of Bethel bank.

DRAMATIC RESUME.

The performances at the New Memphis during the past week have been rather slimly attended, if we except the night set apart for the benefit of the yellow fever sufferers. Miss Emily Melville has been the star, and during the week she has added much to the reputation which she formerly acquired here. Possessing a figure remarkable for its childish grace; an eye whose glance is embedded in joy and laughter; a step as elastic as the spring of the wild deer; a voice whose warblings carry the hearer far into a forgetfulness of the present, and plunges him, as it were, into a sea of melody, she could not prove otherwise than a loadstone, attracting all who approached even the verge of her fascinations. Miss Melville is not a great actress, even in her line, but there is a certain something about her, and an elat in the manner in which she manipulates her audience, which irresistibly wins it; and to quarrel with her few patent defects would be approaching too much toward captiousness for us to indulge in. We looked upon her as we would upon a beautiful landscape, marred by but one feature of ugliness. We forgot the defect in the delicious blending of the beauties of the rest of the picture, and at the first carrol of her really fine, sweet voice, all objections, faults or defects which we might have stored up in the note-book of our memory, to be used in disparagement of her, like Macbeth's ghost, "vanished into thin air," or

"Like the baseless fabric of a vision,
Faded and left not a single wreck behind."

Melville was not made to be carped at—she is too joyous, winning, charming; and far steeped in gall, indeed, must be the pen which, after enjoying the sunshine of her smile, and the weird music of her voice, could sit down and ill-naturedly dissect their parts, searching amid so many beauties for some deformity to vent its spleen upon, because it was amused in spite of itself. Our pen is none such. During the week she has appeared in a trying round of characters, and in none of which can we conscienciously say she was mediocre. In some her genius shone brighter than that of actresses we have seen, whose experiences and opportunities have been much greater. The great night of the week was Wednesday—the benefit of the yellow fever sufferers. Lady Don appeared in conjunction with Miss Melville, in this most creditable event; and we hazard nothing in saying that the citizens of Memphis have never before seen such a successful performance. From the offset it was plain to us that the generous emulation of the "stars" was going to make it a theatrical event, and we were not disappointed. Lady Don appeared as the fascinating Kate O'Brien, in the comedy of "Perfection," and gave to us about as good an exemplification of "perfection" as we have ever seen on or off the stage. We have time and again spoken of the merits of this finished actress, but we know our readers will pardon us for again dwelling upon the sweetness, flexibility and strength of her voice, and the finished culture of her singing. Her hunting song again took the audience by storm, and it was encored and applauded to the echo. We never saw a better audience, or an audience in a better humor. On that night Miss Melville appeared as "Jenny Leatherlungs"—a piece with nothing in it, except the singing—which was rendered in Miss Melville's best style, and it will be long before we forget the emotions aroused within us by the singing of her warbling song. A pin could have been heard, had it dropped on any spot in the theater, and the audience held their breath, fearful that a too loud respiration might mar the effect, and dispel the charm of magic with which she had encompassed it. The acting of the company, too, on this occasion, was the best of the season, and each and every individual appeared to be incited to do his or her best. Ellerton made a decided hit, and we place him high among the low comedians of our experience. We do not now recall any whose performance we can rate above his of last Wednesday night. France, the gentlemanly, studious stage-manager, was good in all, and really brilliant in some of his parts. Fanny Pierson, the vivacious and pert soubrette, found on Wednesday night hundreds of admirers, and for the life of us we could not see much difference between the enthusiasm of her encore and that of the stars, and Fanny deserved every round of applause she received, for all the while she was on the stage she kept the audience in a roar, and her singing of "Oh, you Naughty Men," was rapturously encored. For the present week Miss Melville will hold the boards, and will produce several novelties.

From a private letter from L. P. Barrett, we yesterday learned that it was his intention to return from Europe about Christmas. Mr. B.'s trip to Europe has not been a success—financially or otherwise.

Yesterday Manager Thompson paid over the proceeds of the benefit on Wednesday night to the committee, amounting to $468 70.

We have something additional in regard to the fortunes of Miss Fanny Edrian, lately deceased in this city. It appears that Edrian is not her right name, and that she belonged to a very wealthy family in Brooklyn, New York, from whom she ran away for the purpose of becoming an actress. For the last year or two she has been playing from Montgomery, Alabama, to Portland, Maine. She was very reticent as to her family, and would never tell her right name; but it is supposed to be Fanny Parks. She was possessed of considerable means, having a costly wardrobe as well as a good deal of jewelry and many diamonds.

Edwin Booth and Mrs. Lander have been playing in opposition at Cincinnati. Honors, we understand, were easy.

The charming Lotta is at present taking Louisville by storm. She will be here anon.

The Memphis favorite, Charlotte Thompson, has terminated a very successful engagement at Philadelphia.

Miss Belle Boyd has been playing in Nashville to rather poor houses.

Last Friday night, (Melville's benefit,) was good for florists. Boquets were in demand; we might, in fact, say that Flora was regnant. A certain merchant sent a beautiful one to the foot lights, which was duly received and acknowledged. Another followed, and still another, until the acme was reached by one of the most magnificent combinations of floral productions we have ever seen, in the shape of a pyramid nearly three feet high, passed on the stage by the gallant Professor Jacoby. It was really a success in the flower line, and the getting up of it showed most excellent taste.

THE CAMPAIGNS OF LIEUTENANT GENERAL FORREST AND OF FORREST'S CAVALRY.—We have received from Messrs. Bielock & Co., 315 Main street, the announcement that this interesting work will be issued by them November 25. It will be printed on fine paper, handsomely bound, and illustrated with four full-page steel plate portraits, one group of medallion portraits, together with copious maps and diagrams, and seven portraits on wood, making the most complete and elegant historical work ever issued from the American press. General Forrest says of it:

"In the work now in course of preparation by the Messrs. Bielock & Co. will be found an authentic account of the campaigns and operations in which I took part during the war for the independence of the Confederate States. Believing it to be proper that there should be a timely and lasting record of the deeds and services of those whom I have been so fortunate as to command, I placed all the facts and papers in my possession or available to me, in the hands of accomplished writers, who have done their part with close and conscientious research, and have endeavored to make up a chronicle neither overwrought nor overcolored, as I can testify. For the greater part of the statements of the narrative I am responsible, and all facts and incidents derived from other sources are properly credited in the foot notes. It is hoped that justice will be found done in some degree to the courage, zeal, fortitude and other soldierly qualities of the men of 'Forrest's Cavalry,' for that has been the main purpose of the work."

We know of no work which has been elicited by the late war, that has excited more of public interest, North and South, than this one promises; certainly none has been issued of more interest to the Confederate reader, and to the gallant command of whose prowess it is a history.

DEATH OF M. R. HILL.—Again have we to record the death of one of our prominent citizens. Yesterday, M. R. Hill, one of our first lawyers, was gathered to his fathers, leaving behind him a wide circle of mourning friends. Mr. Hill was taken sick last week, and his son, fulfilling a filial impulse, came from Trenton, where his wife and family reside, to nurse him; but the father, not dreaming that his illness was dangerous, and fearful that his boy might fall a victim to the prevailing sickness, with parental solicitude induced the young man to return to his country home. Soon after his departure Mr. Hill rapidly became worse, and was removed to the Watkins' Infirmary, on Adams street, where he received all the care and attention which a perfect knowledge of medical science, or the exercise of the most unbounded Christian charity could give. It was all of no avail, however, and his enfeebled constitution sank under the vigorous onslaught of the monster which has latterly been decimating our community of its best and noblest. Mr. Hill was, we believe, a native of our own State, and was for many years one of the foremost practitioners of the law in Gibson county, being located in the town of Trenton. Some two or three years ago he removed to Memphis, as offering a wider and better field for the exhibition of those garnered stores of legal lore which made him an ornament to the bar of our city. Soon after his advent among us, he formed a partnership with Judge Thomas G. Smith, who but a few days ago preceded him to the "land of the hereafter," and this partnership continued until dissolved by the death of Judge Smith. In turning over the leaves of our memory we miss no nobler or better man than he of whom we now indite these few sorrowful lines. Devoted to his friends, his family, his profession, his walk was indeed one of usefulness and of virtue, and but for the untimely breaking of the "silver bowl," he would have made a name which would long have "echoed along the corridors of time."

TRANSFER OF REAL ESTATE.—C C Karr to A M Karr, deed, $750, lot No 121, block 22, fronting on Water street, 25 by 148½ feet, running back to the public promenade.

Edward H Bassett to S C Snyder, trust deed, to secure payment of note for $3,500, lot No 205 in plan of extension of North Memphis, through the property of Greenlaw et al, fronting on the east side of Fifth street, 74½ by 148½ feet.

John Harvey et ux to William C Neely, deed, $1,500, the northern portion of lots 9 and 10, block No 82 in plan of Fort Pickering, being the same property conveyed by C D McLean to D M Padgett, October 28, 1853.

Decree of Chancery Court of Memphis in case of Stephen Fransioli vs John S Williams et al, vesting title in Stephen Fransioli's part of county lot No 472, on south side of Exchange street, between Third and the bayou, being 40 feet of the 43 feet of land conveyed by R H Norris to J M Chase, May 10, 1858.

George W Waldron to Rev Page Tyler, deed, $150, being one acre of land off from the west side of a three acre tract conveyed by said Waldron to Clifford et al, February 1, 1867, being 435 feet by 105 feet.

MUNICIPAL COURT.—Convenes on Monday, October 28, pursuant to adjournment, Judge Waldron presiding, etc. The following cases are set for trial on that day:

32 to 44	The State vs Tom Nowles.	Misdemeanor.
45 to 50	" vs Jim Nowles.	Misdemeanor.
[illegible]	" vs James Price.	Misdemeanor.
111 to 125	" vs George Stelzmeyer.	Misdemeanor.
[illegible]	" vs Joseph Lipari and Rose Lovejoy.	Misdemeanor.
233 to 234	The State vs J Briggodelio.	Misdemeanor.
[illegible]	" vs G W Van Voast.	Misdemeanor.
[illegible]	" vs Thomas J Dale.	Misdemeanor.
[illegible]	" vs Roman Brown.	Misdemeanor.
[illegible]	" vs E O Fuller.	Misdemeanor.
[illegible]	" vs Dan Cunningham.	Misdemeanor.

All witnesses on the part of the State must be present at the opening of the court, at ten a.m., otherwise defaults will be taken in failure to appear.

CHARITABLE.—The proprietors of the Keno room at No. 15 Monroe street, have determined to set apart the proceeds of their rooms on next Thursday night for the benefit of the sufferers from yellow fever in our midst. Charity, we are assured by all authorities, is the noblest of virtues, whether exercised by a king or a beggar—a saint or a sinner—and we cannot but commend it, no matter under whatever garb it is found, for it covereth a multitude of sins. 2t

FIRE!

A Terrible Conflagration—The Bradley Block in Ruins.

Loss Over $250,000.

One of the most disastrous conflagrations with which Memphis has been visited for years occurred this morning, shortly after twelve o'clock. The Bradley block, situated on the levee, between Jefferson and Adams streets, was the scene; and what was yesterday a pile of palatial buildings, is now a smouldering ruin. Fire, we understand, was discovered in the building in which it commenced, early in the evening, but was extinguished, and the firemen, after a thorough scrutiny, were satisfied that no danger was to be apprehended. At about half-past twelve, however, the bells rang out their dread alarum, waking us out of a sound sleep, to attend upon the carnival. Upon arriving upon the ground we found the Bradley block on fire, the flames appearing to proceed from the third store from the corner of Adams, occupied by Banfill & Co., as a liquor store and rectifying establishment. From this the flames spread rapidly, extending both ways, from north to south, and flowing backward from the levee to the street behind, east and west, until the whole block was one lurid sheet of flame. The merchants occupying the block were on the corner of Adams and the levee. John Spellman, as a grocer, next tenement was occupied, and the next was the rectifying establishment of Banfill & Co., in which the fire originated. Then came (down stairs) the meat and boat store of M. Pyne & Co., and next, the commission house of R. R. Walt & Co., who, we understand, had a stock of goods which an insurance of $10,000 would not cover. These we have mentioned all fronted on the levee; but there were besides these the occupants of some stores fronting toward Front street. Among these we will mention Low & Bro., immediately on the corner of Adams, Downs & Co., and Moody & Co., all of whom were burned out. In one of the establishments was stored 2,000 bales of hay, and when the flames reached it, and the black smoke began to roll up, combined with the alcohol which was being consumed in the rectifying establishment, we had no hopes for the entire square. Next to the Bradley block is the City Ice house, at which the flames stayed. The walls of the block, as soon as they were gutted—although the flames still shot upward with marvelous vitality, owing to being fed by the immense amount of hay and alcohol stored in the block—commenced falling in, and several of our gallant firemen made a narrow escape, by the sudden falling in of the east wall; but, thank Heaven, we have not to record the sacrifice of any of them. At this writing, the flames have been conquered, and the firemen have them under perfect control. From good and competent judges we cannot estimate the loss and damage at a less figure than $205,000. Memphis cannot be too proud of her gallant fire brigade; we saw some of them tried last night, and saw them meet unblanchingly not only the terrors of the conflagration proper, but the dread and crush of falling walls. We saw men stand there at the pipe who could not tell but that the next second would usher them into eternity; but we saw in them not the first sign of weakness or of flinching. As we close this paragraph, the danger from the conflagration is all over, and the engines are now working only to prevent its further extension.

MEETING OF THE BAR.

Resolutions on the Death of Judge Smith

At a meeting of the members of the Covington bar, held in the court house on Thursday, the 24th day of October, 1867, to take into consideration the decease of the late Thomas G. Smith, Judge of the Law Court of the city of Memphis, on motion, H. R. Bate, Esq., was appointed chairman and Wm. Sanford, Esq., secretary.

The object of the meeting being explained, Isaac M. Steele, Esq., proposed the following preamble and resolutions, except the names in the fourth and fifth resolutions, which were blank, and which, on motion of R. A. Sanford, Esq., were filled by the chairman with the names of J. H. Lauderdale, G. W. Smitheal and Isaac M. Steele, when said preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The sad intelligence of the death of the Hon. Thomas G. Smith, late Judge of the Law Court of the city of Memphis, has been received by the bar of Covington, who have met for the purpose of manifesting their deep sense of his loss, their appreciation of his virtues, and their sympathy with the family in their affliction. Therefore,

Resolved, That we have heard with deep and unaffected sorrow of the sudden demise of the Hon. Thomas G. Smith, in the maturity of his intellectual powers, and in the zenith of his professional usefulness and honor.

Resolved, That in the death of Judge Smith the bench and the bar of West Tennessee have lost one of their brightest ornaments, and the community one of its best citizens.

Resolved, That we cordially and sincerely sympathise with the family of the deceased, in their sad and irreparable bereavement, and tender our condolence for the misfortune they have suffered.

Resolved, That J. H. Lauderdale, Esq., on behalf of this meeting, be requested to ask the Chancellor to have the proceedings thereof spread upon the minutes of the Chancery Court at this place, and that G. W. Smitheal, Esq., make the same request of the Circuit Court.

Resolved, That the Tipton Weekly Record, and the Memphis daily papers, be requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting; and that Isaac M. Steele, Esq., be appointed to forward a copy of the same to the family of the deceased.

On motion, the meeting then dissolved.

H. R. BATE, Chairman.
WM. SANFORD, Secretary.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

Two Trains on the Memphis and Ohio Road Thrown from the Track.

Miraculous Escape of the Passengers.

We were informed last night, by passengers on the Louisville train of the Memphis and Ohio road, that two accidents had occurred on that road yesterday; both happening in the neighborhood of Humboldt, within twenty miles of either side of that town, and both accidents being caused by running over the cattle, both taking place about the same time. On the down train, which arrived here at about five o'clock yesterday afternoon, no personal damage was sustained. The passengers inform us that the train was running at a high rate of speed, and when about twenty-five miles from Humboldt a cow was observed on the track, and the impetus of the train was such that it could not be stopped before it had run over the animal, and displaced three cars from the track. The central car of the train was made a complete wreck, and encumbered the track with its debris. Our fellow citizen, John Donovan, was in this car, and had a narrow escape. The passengers had to wait for several hours until box cars were brought from Trezevant station, in which they, about forty in number, were transported to Brownsville, from which place they reached Memphis at the time specified. Colonel Beaumont was on this train, and during the waiting time he went foraging to a neighboring farm house in quest of some creature comforts, and was "left out in the woods." Wonder if the people don't wish he would stay there?

The up-train on the same road met with a similar fate. Another cow was on the other side of Humboldt, and was in the same manner ran over. The engine was thrown from the track and now lays a perfect wreck. The engineer and fireman were injured, how badly our informant could not tell us, and the train was delayed for several hours. We hope both engineer and fireman are not seriously in danger.

At a meeting of members of the medical profession, held at the office of Dr. W. E. Rogers, October 26, 1867, four p.m., Dr. John Pittman was called to the chair, and Dr. W. R. Mitchell requested to act as Secretary. The Chairman stated that the meeting had been convened for the purpose of giving expression, in fitting terms, at the regret we feel in the demise of our late friend and brother, Dr. T. J. Sale, which sad event occurred at six o'clock this morning, at his residence on Madison street. On motion, Drs. Paul Otey, E. Woodward, W. E. Rogers and John Pittman were appointed a committee to draft suitable resolutions, and reported as follows:

WHEREAS, An Allwise Providence has, in His unfathomable wisdom, removed from us, by His own appointed means, our late friend and brother, Dr. T. J. Sale.

Resolved, That in our intercourse with Dr. T. J. Sale, we ever found him the kind, courteous gentleman, and the honorable and active colaborer in his profession, and that his death creates a void that we deeply and sincerely mourn.

Resolved, That we truly sympathize with his afflicted wife and children in their bereavement, and pray that the God who "tempers the wind to the shorn lamb," will sustain them in this terrible night of affliction.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the family of our deceased brother; also a copy be furnished the city press and the Nashville Medical and Surgical Journal for publication.

Resolved, That Dr. W. E. Rogers present a copy of these resolutions to the Board of Health, with the request that they be spread upon the records of the Board.

Resolved, That we, as a body, attend the remains of our late brother to their last resting place at Elmwood Cemetery, to-morrow at 11 o'clock a.m.

R. MITCHELL, Secretary.

BINGHAM BROS.—The Messrs. Bingham have now one of the finest and most complete photographic galleries in the Southwest. The splendid rooms in Clark's marble block have recently been much improved by them. They now take all kinds of pictures, and good ones, too, as the artistic representation of our features which hangs in our rooms will attest, for it has been pronounced by those who have seen it as "being as true to life as the reflection in the mirror." It is superfluous to say anything of their merits as gentlemen or as artists, for they are too well known in this city and vicinity to need any commendation from us. We will simply say there are no better artists here or elsewhere, and no cleverer gentlemen the world over. If you want a picture go and see them.

RIVER NEWS.

AVALANCHE OFFICE, SUNDAY, October 27.

BUSINESS—WEATHER—RIVERS.

The weather yesterday was dark and gloomy, but not cool enough for frost. The stage of the rivers remains about as they were at our last. Captain Crane, of the Ed. Tracey, reports the channel at Phillip's as having cut out along the Kentucky shore to five and one-half feet, large. At Hat island there is six feet, and the channel was close to the Illinois shore.

IN PORT.

Pilgrim, Myrtle and City of Cairo.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Commercial was but slightly injured, and got away for White river last night at a late hour, after being repaired. She had to refuse freight early in the day, and left with all she could carry on the water.

Captain Mike Pyne, of the St. Patrick, who returned from St. Louis, on Tuesday last, has been ill, but was out again yesterday. He reports the Wild Irishman in a forward state of repair, and will have her here in about two weeks.

The Rubicon reported the Cairo hard aground just below St. Louis. She will, no doubt, be found at the landing this morning.

The swift and elegant Belle Memphis, Captain Musselman, with Geo. Deane in the office, will leave for St. Louis, as usual, on Monday evening, at five o'clock.

The Henry Ames, with Frank Hicks in command, will be in port to-night, and will leave for New Orleans and way points on Wednesday next.

The gay little Myrtle, all bedecked with new paint, and gilded in the finest manner, will leave on Wednesday next for all points on the Yazoo. Bill Hardwick is master.

The Pilgrim did not get away last evening. She lays over until Tuesday next, when she will positively depart for Pine Bluff. Captain Tom Berry is master.

The gallant City of Cairo, of which the no less gallant Bob Riley is master, was detained by low water, but will leave to-day on her return to Cairo and St. Louis, at ten a.m. She is one of the finest packets afloat. Mr. White is chief clerk.

The Rowena having changed days with the Commercial, will be in port to leave for Duvall's Bluff and Augusta, on Tuesday evening. John Davis commands, and Kidder, Harry, and Sharp are clerks.

The Virginia is the New Orleans packet for this evening. Captain Drorillard is master.

The Des Arc, Captain John D. Elliott, will be in port to-night. She will return on Tuesday for Vicksburg and the bends. Cad Hanks is in the office and Matt Glass is his assistant.

The J. S. McCune picked up a trip at Cairo for New Orleans.

At last accounts the Phantom and Success were aground at Cumberland bar, in the Ohio.

It is reported that the City of Alton will be lengthened.

Hicks King and Al. Croxall are in St. Louis, hunting a trip for the Cora S.

The Northern Belle and Pembina collided, recently, near Prescott. Not much damage sustained.

The Minnie is coming from St. Louis, with a trip for White and Arkansas rivers.

Frank Oakes' new steamer Alaska had a trial trip, the other day, at Cincinnati. She worked splendidly.

The Northern Line packet company have closed a contract with Alf. Cutting, Esq., the well known boat builder of Metropolis, for a new wharf-boat. The new boat will be 300 feet in length, forty feet beam, five feet depth of hold, and will be ready for the spring business.

Parties are negotiating for the Major Anderson, and, if they succeed, will put her in the Cincinnati and Pittsburg trade, as a weekly packet.

The George W. Palmer was advertised to leave New Orleans, on Thursday last, for White river.

The Cairoites, having raised their quarantine, have made arrangements to secure telegrams from this city, and Columbus, Kentucky, announcing the departure of boats having cases of yellow fever, or any other contagious or infectious disease on board. Doctor C. W. Dunning was employed as examining physician, to board and inspect upward bound steamboats, and to see to it that the health ordinances of the city are duly enforced.

FINLEY'S CHURN DASHER!

Got one of them yet? Got one of what, Sir?

Why, one of the "Finley Churn Dashers."

Why do you ask me that question, sir?

BECAUSE one of them is needed, no doubt, and that badly, among your household conveniences, that the laborious and troublesome item of churning may become an agreeable recreation to the ladies, upon whom such duties usually devolve.

What's the Article? What's the description? What's it do, pray, sir?

Well, it is simply two screw propeller wheels attached to the lower end of a staff or handle which is placed in the "old fashioned" wooden or tub churn, and worked in the same manner precisely as the "old dasher"; these two wheels revolve rapidly and in counter directions at every up and down movement of the "Dasher," completely disengaging and cutting the cream into the minutest particles; while at the same time by aid of the "air beds" in each division of the wheels, keeps the whole bulk of the cream supplied with constant currents of fresh air, thus securing by the simplest process the true principles of "Good Butter Making."

Well, sir, is the thing simple—very simple?

Why, so very simple when seen, that not a word of explanation is necessary. Why "Biddy," "Aunt Dinah," or the eight year old child can both UNDERSTAND and USE it, and couldn't for their lives imagine any other purpose for it.

Is it Durable and Substantial, sir?

It is made of the best sheet tin—will not rust—strong—neat, and with ordinary care, will last as long as you and your grand children's children.

Long enough. Well, my friend, does it make GOOD BUTTER and QUICK?

It does not only make good butter, but about ONE-FOURTH MORE, to a given amount of cream, under like circumstances of quality and temperature, and in about ONE HALF THE TIME required by the use of the "old dasher." Am, however, quite ready to confess that it will not make Butter as QUICK as the boasted "Five Minute" and other "Lightning" Churns nor would we have it so quick; for the very plain and simple reason that the extraordinary rapid operation of such Churns yields as the result a MASS OF SOFT, LARDY, UNINVITING STUFF, instead of those RICH, GRAINY, WAXY, FIRM and LIVELY QUALITIES which constitute REAL GOOD BUTTER.

Well, sir, I have one of the "old fashioned" Churns—an old family relic of several generations past, and do I understand you that nothing more is required than one of the "FINLEY DASHERS?"

Nothing else whatever to complete the SIMPLEST, CHEAPEST, and MOST SATISFACTORY CHURNING APPARATUS that the world has yet produced.

Well, friend, once more—excuse me, sir—right well pleased, but a little suspicious. Can't help it. Are you sure this is not one of the Yankee humbugs—one of the "Machine Nutmegs," or one of the "Hub of the Universe Hams" sort of tricks; such hams that would, to look upon, bring a "broad guage" grin to the phiz of the most fastidious epicure—but with somewhat of a change in the "programme and scenery" when casting a sly peep at the cook after many fruitless efforts to slice a broil or two. Ugh! such looks and such "tongues," as all understand who have been "thusly done for."

Methinks I discover a mutual sympathy, a similarity of experience and a similar determination to avoid all humbugs, especially with the "Yankee" prefix. My friend, "FINLEY'S DASHER" is NO HUMBUG—not a bit of it, sir. 'Tis a "home invention," and will, upon its own true merits, win its way into every household in the land, North and South. The Dasher is open to competition, and for "common sense," every day practical use and household economy, we say to Yankee or anybody else, BEAT IT IF YOU CAN.

Principal Depot for the Southern States for FINLEY'S CHURN DASHER, at the popular China Hall of EASTLAND, LLOYD & GILBERT, No. 321 Main Street, Memphis, Tenn., and for sale by agents everywhere.

Retail Price $4 00 Each, and Invariably Cash.

Agents for the United States.

AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE FOR "FINLEY'S CHURN DASHER."

The FINLEY CHURN DASHER combines so fully the requisite qualities of simplicity, economy and practical utility, as to place it at the head of all other implements for similar purposes, and cannot fail to recommend itself most forcibly to the common sense and sound judgement of the people, and to be regarded as one of the most useful household articles, and more especially so with the people of the Southern States, who now feel so greatly the need of time, saving and labor saving inventions.

Remember, that the retail price has been fixed at FOUR DOLLARS each, everywhere; and that the proprietor intends to hold and exercise the exclusive right to the manufacture and sale of the Dasher for the whole United States, and cannot therefore be obtained through any other than authorized agencies.

Remember, that the wholesale price to Agents has been fixed at a figure to insure a large profit to such Agents as may handle it with industry and tact, and that such agents can, with a cash capital of one hundred to one thousand dollars, make more money in less time, with less trouble, and with less risk than many others all around you with thousands of capital invested in other pursuits.

Remember, that active, striving, energetic men, who are willing to "pull off coat and roll up sleeves," CAN, with a small capital, realize one hundred per cent. profit at every thirty to sixty days—inducement enough, certainly; and we are prepared to offer such to the right sort of men. "Understand distinctly," that no such promises are made to "lazy men," for they don't do it. Away, then, with complaints of "hard times," "no employment," "no situations." Come and get employment and profit by employment for thousands—employment both pleasant and highly remunerative. The field of operation is as wide as the whole country—choose your own grounds—States, Counties, Cities, Towns and the Rural Districts—North, South, East and West—all is before you. Can visit on foot and on horseback, by wagon, railroad and steamboat, and it will pay you well to do it, for wherever you go with the Dasher, you will find ready customers, and [illegible] around all day long crying "hard times and worse coming." Young men, "accept the situation" to make your own living, and by your own individual efforts, and here is a good opportunity of doing so. Throw overboard false pride, "politics," "fashion," "180 cents," "golden dreams" and "downy ease," and take hold of this work with a vim; "drive it" ahead, and soon the empty purse will be full—running over—and friends will spring up by the legion.

Remember, that in addition to the large profits there are TWO PRIZES at stake, and we want you to get one or both of them: TWO HUNDRED and FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

Remember to call and see us at once, or write for particulars, with stamp for answer.

TEXAS TONIC SYRUP

A Vegetable Compound for the Rapid and Never Failing Cure of

CHILLS & FEVER OR FEVER & AGUE

Every Poison has its Antidote---Every Disease has its Cure!

THE people of the Mississippi Valley, and throughout the entire South, have long felt the necessity for, and want of, a SAFE, CERTAIN AND RELIABLE REMEDY, as a substitute for Quinine, Strychnine, and other poisonous Drugs, for the cure of Fever and Ague, or Chills and Fever. We claim, and the results will show, and bear ample testimony to every unprejudiced mind, that the "Texas Tonic syrup has supplied this want and accomplished this object. Its Tonic, Alterative and Antiseptic qualities are such that none can possibly be disappointed in its effects. Upon its own merits, therefore is it sustained. A single trial is all that is needed to stamp this remedy as the greatest specific of the age.

The ingredients of which this Medicine is composed are simple productions of nature abounding upon certain streams in the State of Texas, and were ever used by the Aborigines of that State as a specific for Fevers of all kinds, and especially Fever and Ague, which they never failed to cure.

A celebrated physician, acquainted with these facts, has furnished us his theory upon this important subject, and hence the proper, properly named TEXAS TONIC SYRUP, which we now offer to the public as a specific and POSITIVE cure for Fever and Ague, or Chills and Fever no matter of how long standing.

Having had indubitable evidence of its prompt and certain effects from the testimony of a multitude of respectable citizens, we do not hesitate to recommend this preparation in all cases of Fever and Ague and Chills and Fever; indeed, from the facts in our possession of its virtues, we would not be too much for us to state that where the directions are strictly complied with we warrant a cure in every case. Which it is pleasant to the taste and the cheapest Medicine in the market. Therefore, in truth, it may be declared the day is not far distant when it must be appreciated and used in every household, where Fever and Ague or Chills and Fever is found to exist.

THE REMAINS OF J. WILKES BOOTH.

The following touching lines were suggested by the newspaper statement that the mother of J. Wilkes Booth had recently plead in vain with the Government for his remains, that she might give them decent interment. They are from the pen of a Front street merchant, a distinguished officer of the Confederacy in the recent war, whose consent to their publication was reluctantly obtained. If they should meet the eyes of the Washington authorities, we trust they will touch a chord which has not yet been moved, and effect their appeal:

Stop! listen! 'tis a mother's prayer—
She asks her boy to bury;
Oh! give her up what yet remains;
She'll only chant some sad refrains,
And lay away his mouldering manes,
Without pomp or story.

If 'tis true the dark Potomac
On that dread night became his tomb,
Oh! tell her, in low accents, sadly,
That a Christain race would gladly,
If they had not acted madly,
Grant this mother's boon.

Treat her kindly—quietly sooth her—
Respect a wan-cheeked mother's grief—
Sooth away her widow's cares;
She will bless you through her tears—
A nation have a mother's prayers,
A broken heart relief.

If within that vault so dread
His body rests without a stone,
Oh! give it up—the spirit's fled,
The heart that did the deed is dead—
Let a mother's tears be shed—
In a measure 'twill atone.

Grant the boon—she is a mother—
Ere she sinks away to rest.
She does not ask the eye that flashes,
Nor his tender filial gushes;
She only craves his dust and ashes—
'Tis a moth r's last request.

SIX LOVE LETTERS.

From the Waverley.]

"Are there any more of those letters?"

When her father asked this question, in an awful tone, Lucilla Richmond could not say "no," and dared not say "yes," but, as an intermediate course, burst into tears, and sobbed behind her handkerchief.

"Bring them to me, Lucilla," said her father, as if she had answered him, as indeed she had; and the girl, trembling and weeping, arose to obey him.

Then Mrs. Richmond, her daughter's very self grown older, came behind her husband's chair and patted him on the shoulder.

"Please don't be hard with her, my dear," she said, coaxingly. "He's a nice young man, and it's our fault, after all, as much as hers, and you won't break her young heart, I'm sure."

"Perhaps you approve of the whole affair, madam," said Mr. Richmond.

"I—no—that is, I only"—gasped the little woman; and hearing Lucilla coming she sank into a chair, blaming herself dreadfully for not having been present at all her daughter's music lessons during the past year.

For all this disturbance arose from a music teacher who had given music lessons to Miss Lucilla for twelve months, and who had taken the liberty of falling in love with her, knowing well that she was the daughter of one of the richest men in Yorkshire.

"It was inexcusable in a poor music teacher, who should have known his place," Mr. Richmond declared, and he clutched the little perfumed billet which had fallen into his hands as he might a scorpion, and waited for the others with a look upon his face which told of no softening. They came at last, six little white envelops, tied together with blue ribbon, and were laid at his elbow by his despairing daughter.

"Lock these up until I return home this evening," he said to his wife; "I will read them this evening. Meanwhile, Lucilla is not to see this music teacher on any pretense."

And then Miss Lucilla went down upon her knees:

"Oh, dear papa!" she cried, "dearest papa, please don't say I must never see him again. I couldn't bear it—indeed I could not. He's poor, I know, but he's a gentleman, and I—I like him so much, papa."

"No more of this absurdity, my dear," said Mr. Richmond. "He has been artful enough to make you think him perfection, I suppose. Your parents know what is best for your happiness. A music teacher is not a match for Miss Richmond."

With which remark Mr. Richmond put on his coat and hat and departed.

Then Lucilla and her mother took the opportunity of falling into each other's arms.

"It's so naughty of you," said Mrs. Richmond. "But, oh, dear, I can't blame you. It was exactly so with me. I ran away with your papa, you know, and my parents objected because of his poverty. I feel the greatest sympathy for you, and Frederick has such fine eyes and is so pleasing. I wish I could soften your papa."

"When he sees the letters, there'll be no hope, I'm very much afraid," sobbed Miss Lucilla. "Fred is so romantic, and papa hates romance."

"He used to be very romantic himself in those old times," said Mrs. Richmond. "Such letters as he wrote me. I have them in my desk yet. He said he should die if I refused him."

"So does Fred," said Lucilla.

"And that life would be worthless without me; about my being beautiful (he thought so, you know). I'm sure he ought to sympathize a little," said Mrs. Richmond.

But she dared not promise that he would.

She coaxed her darling to stop crying, and made her lie down; then went up into her room to put the letters into her desk; and as she placed them in one pigeon hole, she saw in another a bundle tied exactly as those were, and drew them out.

These letters were to a Lucilla, also. One who had received them twenty years before—and she was now a matron old enough to have a daughter who had heart-troubles—unfolded them one by one, wondering how it came to pass that lovers' letters were all so much alike.

Half a dozen—just the same number, and much more romantic than those the music master had written to her daughter Lucilla. A strange idea came into Mrs. Richmond's mind. She dared not oppose her husband by a look or word, she had never attempted such a thing.

But she was very fond of her daughter. When she left the desk she looked guilty and frightened, and something in her pocket rustled as she moved. But she said nothing to any one on the subject until the dinner hour arrived, and with it came her husband, angrier and more determined than ever. The meal was passed in silence; then, having adjourned to the parlor, Mr. Richmond seated himself in a great arm chair and demanded "the letters," in a voice of thunder.

Mrs. Richmond put her hand into her pocket, and pulled it out again with a frightened look.

Mr. Richmond again repeated still more sternly—

"Those absurd letters, if you please, my dear ma'am."

And the little woman faltered—

"I—that is—I believe—yes, dear—I believe I have them," and gave him a pile of white envelops, encircled with blue ribbon, with a hand that trembled like an aspen leaf.

As for Lucilla, she began to weep as though the end of all things had come at last, and felt sure that if papa should prove cruel she should die.

"Six letters—six shameful pieces of deception, Lucilla," said the indignant parent. "I am shocked that a child of mine should practice such duplicity. Hem! let me see. Number one, I believe. June and this is December. Half a year you have deceived us then, Lucilla. Let me see—ah! 'From the first moment he adored you,' eh? Nonsense. People do not fall in love in that absurd manner. It takes years of acquaintance and respect and attachment. 'With your smiles for his goal, he would win both fame and fortune, poor as he is!' Fiddlesticks, Lucilla! A man who has common sense would always wait until he had a fair commencement before he proposed to any girl. 'Praise of your beauty. The loveliest creature he ever saw!' Exaggeration, my dear. You are not plain, but such flattery is absurd. 'Must hear from you or die!' Dear, dear—how absurd!"

And Mr. Richmond dropped the first letter, and took up another.

"The same stuff," he commented. "I hope you don't believe a word he says. A plain, earnest, upright sort of a man would never go into such rhapsodies, I am sure. Ah! now in number three he calls you 'an angel!' He is romantic, upon my word. And what is all this?"

"'Those who would forbid you to see me can find no fault with me but my poverty. I am honest—I am in earnest in my efforts. I am by birth a gentleman, and I love you from my soul. Do not let them sell you for gold, Lucilla.'

"Great heavens, what impertinence to your parents!"

"I don't remember Fred's saying anything of the kind," said poor Lucilla. "He never knew you would object."

Mr. Richmond shook his head, frowned, and read on in silence until the last sheet lay under his hand. Then with an ejaculation of rage he started to his feet.

"Infamous!" he cried; "I'll go to him this instant—I'll horsewhip him! As for you, by Jove, I'll send you to a convent. Elope—elope with a music teacher! I'm ashamed to call you my daughter. Where's my hat? Give me my boots. Here, John, call a cab!—I—"

But here Lucilla caught one arm and Mrs. Richmond the other.

"Oh, papa, are you crazy?" said Lucilla. "Frederick never proposed such a thing. Let me see the letter. Oh, papa, this is not Fred's, upon my word it is not. Do look, papa, it is dated twenty years back, and Frederick's name is not Charles! Papa, these are love-letters to mamma, written long ago. Her name is Lucilla, you know."

Mr. Richmond sat down in his arm chair in silence, very red in the face.

"How did this occur?" he said sternly. And little Mrs. Richmond retreating into a corner, with a handkerchief to her eyes, sobbed,—

"I did it on purpose!" and then paused as though she expected a sudden judgment. But hearing nothing, she dared at last to rise and creep up to her husband timidly.

"You know, Charles," she said, "it's so long ago since, and I thought you might not exactly remember—how you fell in love with me at first sight, how papa and mamma objected, and how at last we ran away together; and it seemed to me that if we could bring it all back plainly to you as it was then we might let poor Lucilla marry the man she likes, who is good if he is not rich. I did not need it brought back any plainer myself; women have more time to remember you know. And we've been very happy—have we not?"

And certainly Mr. Richmond could not deny that. So Lucilla, feeling that her interests might safely be left in her mother's keeping, slipped out of the room, and heard the result of the ruse next morning. It was favorable to the young music teacher, who had really only been sentimental and had not gone half so far as an elopement; and in due course of time, the two were married with all the pomp and grandeur befitting the nuptials of a wealthy merchant's daughter, with the perfect approbation of Lucilla's father, and to the great joy of Lucilla's mamma, who justly believed that her little ruse had brought about her daughter's happiness.

DEATH OF NED BUNTLINE'S WIFE.

A Curious Career.

From the Nashville Banner.

There died in the poorhouse of this county, and was buried last Saturday at the expense of the public, a woman who was at one time the wife of the famous Ned Buntline, and at another the mistress of Ben. McCulloch, the ranger.

The date of her registry was "July 26." The name entered was "Martha Leguire," but she went by various pseudonyms, and was originally a Cuban, born at Havana, and raised in New Orleans. Her true name was Maria Cordova.

The story of her life, as given to us, is rather more romantic than commonly turns up in the every day experience of a local reporter. Her father was a tobacconist, and the first mention made of her was when she was a girl fourteen or fifteen years of age, when she was known in the Crescent city as "the pretty cigar girl of Canal street." She attended at the patriarchial shop, both wrapped and sold the choicest principes, and added to her charms and her reputation by an exceeding coy modesty that defied assault.

Buntline—before he came to Nashville and was involved in the fearful tragedy that is associated with his name—lived a thriftless, dare-devil life in Texas, on the prairies, upon the gulf coast, and about New Orleans. He was a handsome young fellow of obscure origin, ready talent, neat address, and varied accomplishments.

His meeting with the pretty cigar girl was an accident, and his suit was long and difficult. At last he had to marry her, and, three weeks after the marriage, the couple suddenly disappeared.

There are various accounts of their absence. It was said that the "Captain," as Ned was then called (he is a General now), commanded a brig in the Caribbean seas, and did business as an active and fearless pirate. It was reported that he had gone to Texas to see Judge Wartrous, and claim the fortune left by Lafitt. It was sworn to in court that he had retired on the proceeds of a faro bank, in which he was interested, and fitted him up a ranche at Corpus Christi.

Most likely the latter is the correct version.

In 1847, when McCulloch appeared at the head of the scouts or rangers, by which Old Zack set such store, he had with him an orderly, remarkable for his retiring, reticent, modest disposition, and his handsome girlish face. This orderly, it will be remembered, accompanied him through the campaign, being wounded in front of Perrote, and being left with the monks at Santa Cruz, at the old convent near Pareda's hacienda. McCulloch was always careful of the secret, but somehow it leaked out. The orderly was a person of the tender sex; was, in fact, the pretty cigar girl of Canal street.

Where the ranger had found her, how the pirate had become separated from her, are points on which we are unable to enlighten the reader. McCulloch never saw her again. He left her at Perrote, was wounded himself at Cherubusco, conveyed to Vera Cruz, and thence ordered to Washington. Whether he ever made an effort to regain his lost orderly is unknown. She remained at the monastery for nearly ten years.

Not yet shorn of her beauty, she appeared in the city of Managua, Central America, at the entrance of General Henningsen, and there made the acquaintance of a gambling fillibuster, well known in New Orleans and Nashville, whom she accompanied back to the States. Her descent from a cathedral to the monte table, and from a gambling hell to a common brothel, and from infamy to pauperism, was very gradual, but also very sure.

She found herself, during the winter of 1865, at the close of the war, in this city. She had been sent north from Atlanta, by Sherman, when he depopulated that city, first to Cincinnati and then to Louisville. The last of an eventful career opened in a little outhouse of this city, west of the Capitol. For a few weeks she employed herself as a sewing woman, but gave way to drink, and, after the customary seasons of arrest and punishment, relapsed into hopeless mendicancy and finally into the poorhouse.

Here she died, and hence she was carried to an unmarked grave. One who saw her after the body was decently clad for interment represents that she presented a most beautiful but saddening spectacle. The traces of the original charm that had singled her out of a city full of Creole girls still remained, though dim and marred by the signs of want and sorrow and dissipation to overspread them.

"DIED OF A BROKEN HEART."

From the Metropolitan Record.]

Yes, there it stands recorded. How mournfully it sounds. Died of a broken heart. Who? A woman—a lady. Her plantation had been sacked, provisions gone, clothing worn out. What could she do but go to Memphis in order to obtain supplies for her faithful slaves and herself?

She went, obtained what she needed; no ammunition, nothing contraband, simply farm supplies. Starting home, she is arrested and lodged in that den of misery, the Irving block. No charge is preferred against her, but she is guilty of being accomplished and beautiful.

A generous lawyer finds she is there; he pleads and demands a trial or release if there are no charges.

What care the authorities for lawyers or law, when they have all power in their own hands—military power?

Again he visits and tries to encourage that lone, defenceless, imprisoned woman. What that woman suffered is known now only to her jailers and her God. With haggard face and beseeching eyes she begs her friends: "Get me out of this place or I shall die; I cannot live another day."

"Oh! no. There is no charge against you. I will certainly get you out to-morrow. Keep up your spirits."

The morning came and with it the lawyer. In the agonies of death lay that beautiful and gifted woman. "I told you I could not live another day," she said, and died.

"There," continued my informant, Major G——, "is her daughter," as he pointed to a lively little girl of perhaps eight years, near the middle of the car. "I was requested by a distant relative to find her. I did so, and now I am taking her to a childless couple of the same name, but probably not related, who have adopted her. The little one will be now well cared for."

The Major looked out the car window for some time as he ceased speaking, and I found my right hand feeling for an old sabre hilt, but it was not in my reach.

Great heaven! is there a man wearing the uniform of a United States officer who carries one drop of generous blood in his veins and cannot feel it crimson his whole face with shame and bow his head in degradation when he reads this simple narrative?

But yesterday and I passed through a portion of Elmwood. A little grassy mound in the "strangers burying ground" marks the spot of her last resting place, but in the office stands the record:

"Mrs. —— ——
Died of a broken heart."

A Reminiscence of Lola Montez.

An interesting reminiscence of Lola Montez is given in a little tract just published by the Protestant Episcopal Society for the promotion of Evangelical Knowledge, 3 Bible House.

It appears that Lola Montez, who died six years ago, and was buried in Greenwood under her proper name of Eliza Gilbert, became a convert to the Christian faith during her last illness. In the latter part of 1860 she was struck with paralysis of her left side, and lay for some days in an unconscious state. When her system had partially rallied, she became thoughtful upon religious subjects, and solicited the ministrations of the late Dr. Hawks, to whom she confided the story of her life, and her hopes of a new spiritual life. Dr. Hawks has left a brief memoir, in which he describes these interviews. "In the course of a long experience as a Christian minister," he writes, "I do not think I ever saw deeper penitence and humility, more real contrition of soul, and more of bitter self reproach, than in this poor woman. When I prayed with her, nothing could exceed the fervor of her devotion, and never had I a more watchful and attentive hearer when I read the Scriptures." In another passage Dr. Hawks relates that during this period the Bible was always within reach of her hand, and adds: "On my first visit, when I took up her Bible from the table, the fact struck me that it opened of its own accord to the touching story of Christ's forgiveness of the Magdalene in the house of Simon." Dr. Hawks speaks warmly of Lola's genius, and dwells upon her rare natural eloquence, to which, he says, he listened with admiration.

Fragments from Lola's diary are not the least interesting part of this little tract. The first extract, dated September 10, 1859, shows profound devotional feeling, and those which followed reveal the growth of a strong religious faith. In one singular passage she writes: "All that has passed in New York has not been mere illusion. I feel that it is true. The Lord has heard my feeble cry to Him, and I felt what no human tongue can describe. Such feelings belong not to pen, or will, or words." Elsewhere she writes: "To-morrow is Sunday, and I shall go to the poor, little, humble chapel, and there will mingle my prayers with those of the fervent pastor, and with the good and true. There is no pomp and ceremony among these. All is simple. No fine dresses, no worldly display, but the honest Methodist breathes forth a sincere prayer, and I feel much unity of soul."

In 1858, a year before these words were written, Lola occupied a pretty cottage in Yorkville, where she was in the habit of receiving all comers. Sunday was her general reception day, and some odd characters found their way to her home, where she was always ready to chat and smoke with them. She was then worn and haggard, but her brilliant conversational powers were no less remarkable than the remains of her singular beauty.

BY virtue of a deed of trust to me executed by John H. Waggener, on the twenty-ninth day of June, 1867, which deed is of record in the Register's office of Shelby county, in book No. 61, pages 172, 173 and 174, to secure to Hiram A. Pattee the prompt payment at maturity of a promissory note therein specified, and whereas said note is due and unpaid; now, therefore, by virtue of the power in me vested by said deed of trust, I will, on Tuesday, the twenty-ninth of October, 1867, between the hours of eleven a.m. and two p.m., at the court house door, Greenlaw block, in the city of Memphis, proceed to sell to the highest bidder for cash, the property in said deed conveyed and described thus: Beginning at the northeast corner of lot No. 15, in sub-division C, in the partition of the estate of A. B. Carr, at a stake in the Pigeon Roost road, north 16 degrees, east 14 links from a poplar marked [illegible] and thence south 20 chains 51 links to a stake, south 3 degrees, west 151½ links from a poplar marked H, thence north 54½ degrees, west 7 chains 61 links to P. Halstian's line, thence north 20 chains 33 links to the Pigeon Roost road, thence south 57 degrees, east with said road 7 chains 75½ links to the beginning, containing about fourteen acres. The above metes and bounds are taken so far as they follow the original lines from the plan of sub-division C of A. B. Carr's estate, and is a portion of the land described in the deed of J. P. Caruthers to Samuel Mansfield, recorded in book 41, part second, page 363, etc., and described in the deed from Samuel Mansfield, Mary B. Mansfield and F. W. Robertson to H. A. Montgomery, in book 58, part second, pages 150, etc., embracing a splendid residence, known as the "Mansfield Place."
TERMS—Cash. Title believed to be good, but I convey only as trustee. The equity of redemption is waived.

VICKSBURG, MISS., OCTOBER 4, 1867.—In consequence of the prevalence of Yellow Fever in the city of Vicksburg, we are compelled, by the duty we owe to ourselves, our families and employes, to postpone the Second Preliminary Distribution of the Mississippi Agricultural, Educational and Manufacturing Aid Society from the 16th day of October to the 20th of November, 1867.
To give our patrons and the public at a distance the necessary time for renewal of certificates, the Third Preliminary Distribution will be drawn November 30th, and the Grand Scheme December 28th, 1867.
We trust that a kind and indulgent public will both excuse and approve of the short postponement.
Correspondents and persons ordering certificates are requested to direct their communications to the Secretary at Meridian, Miss., to which place our office is temporarily removed. An authorized agent will remain at Vicksburg to attend to any communications or orders for certificates.
